Nikita Asserts West Imperils World Peace

Threatens Buildup Of Forces; Cites Need For Negotiations

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev called Monday night for East-West negotiations on Germany but held to his demand for a peace treaty with Communist East Germany and East German control of the West's access routes to Berlin. In an 85-minute radio-TV speech delivered against the background of Soviet Maj. Gherman S. Titov's successful earth-orbiting space flight, Khrushchev accused the West of pushing the world toward war over Berlin. He threatened in turn an accelerated buildup of the Soviet military strength.

May Increase Power "It may be that we shall have to increase in the future the numerical strength of the army on the Western frontiers by moving divisions from other parts of the Soviet Union," he said.

In connection with this, we may have to call up a part of the reservists so that our divisions will have a full complement and be ready for any eventuality."

In his speech Khrushchev told the United States, Britain and France: "Let's sit down around a table and negotiate in an honest way. Let's not create hysteria. Let's clear the atmosphere."

2 Men Killed on State Highways

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The deaths of two men, one from Illinois, the other from Minnesota, have raised Wisconsin's 1961 highway toll to 506, compared with 466 a year ago today.

Otto Marecek, 82, of Chicago, was killed Monday in a one-car crash about 18 miles east of Madison. The auto, driven by Marecek, left Highway 12, bounced 700 feet along the right side of the road, swung across the pavement and struck a tree.

Orville Skaw, 44, St. Paul, Minn., died Monday in a Chipewa Falls hospital of injuries received Sunday night. His car overturned several times after leaving Chippewa County Highway M about three miles east of New Auburn. Skaw, a former New Auburn resident, was visiting friends there.

Democrats Assail GOP Tax Bill but Vote Likely Today

Sum Up Arguments Against Measure; Passage Expected

MADISON (AP) — The Republican tax revision bill moved toward a final Assembly vote today with Democrats launching in- to a summation of their argu- ments against the bill.

Fred Risser, D-Madison, spoke for more than an hour in oppos- ing the measure which is pegged to a three per cent sales tax. Risser stated the bill was not tax revision and did not follow the report of the Governor's revenue survey commission.

"Not a single one of the 15 major recommendations of the commission is contained in its en- tirety in the bill," Risser said.

Up to Governor In the debate, both sides are looking beyond the Legislature and speculating on what Demo- cratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson will do if the bill reaches his desk.

Republicans are predicting on the floor that he will sign the measure, and Democrats are say- ing he is sure to veto it.

Much of Monday's 90-minute ses- sion was taken up by a speech by George Molinaro, D-Keosauqua. He repeated most of the Demo- cratic arguments against the measure, which includes a three- per cent retail sales tax and a withholding system of collecting state income taxes.

"To put it bluntly," said Moli- naro, "I oppose the sales tax in all respects."

Favors Income Tax Molinaro contended that the in- come tax has not been exhausted as a revenue producing measure.

"Anything you can do with a sales tax you can do even better with the income tax," he said.

"The trouble with the sales tax is that it deals with situations on the basis of an average," said Molinaro, "whereas the income tax treats each individual case on the basis of its individual cir- cumstances."

Assemblyman Richard Peter- son, R-Waupaca, answered Moli- naro, charging Democrats don't know whether Gov. Gaylord Nel- son will sign or veto the tax bill because the governor changed his position on taxes so often.

The Assembly version contains four amendments that require an- other vote on the measure by the Senate.

West Europe's Press Lauds Talk of Parley

No Fundamental Change Indicated In Soviet Position

LONDON (AP) — Western Eu- rope reacted today to Premier Khrushchev's "let's talk it over" speech with a mixture of caution, skepticism and a willingness to negotiate.

Most British newspapers agreed with Khrushchev that it was time for East-West leaders to sit down at a table and negotiate the press- ing issues of Berlin and Germany.

But in France and West Ger- many, there was caution and some suspicion of Khrushchev's motives. Some newspapers and politicians felt that the Soviet premier had not changed the crisis climate.

Sets Own Terms "Negotiation in his eyes can be conceived only on the basis of the settlement he envisages for solv- ing the Berlin crisis," said Paris' conservative Figaro.

Despite the urgency of the situ- ation, many newspapers through- out Europe gave top billing to So- viet cosmonaut Gherman Titov.

Even the Communist party newspapers in London, Rome and Paris considered the space travel- er the biggest newsmaker of the day. So did the London Daily Mir- ror and Daily Herald, and all early editions in Rome and Paris.

Copenhagen papers were too pre- occupied with Titov to mention his premier editorially.

Tension Continues West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt said Khrushchev had done nothing to reduce East-West tensions.

Brandt assailed Khrushchev's statement that self-determination for Germany was just a hypo- critical Western slogan. The may- or said the Germans' elementary wish for self-determination can- not be passed off with the art of dialectics.

The London Daily Mail called for a summit meeting with Khrushchev "at the earliest mo- ment to find out what his real intentions are."

The London Times said the door on both sides is open to negotiation.

Rush to Beat Draft

Enlistments in Armed Forces Continue High

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sus- tained surge of volunteers has followed President Kennedy's call- ing for a buildup of U.S. armed forces and the announcement of higher draft calls.

Defense Department sources said today a sampling of enlist- ment trends in widely scattered areas showed there has been no letup in the increased rate that followed the President's speech two weeks ago.

Major emphasis is on the Army, which is authorized to add about 133,000 men to build up to over 1 million men.

Fill Out Divisions One of the first efforts will be to train manpower to fill out three present training divisions in the Strategic Army Force— STRAF—then convert those divi- sions into combat units. The three divisions are the 1st Infan- try at Ft. Riley, Kan., the 2nd Infantry at Ft. Benning, Ga., and the 2nd Armored at Ft. Hood, Tex.

A combat infantry division has an authorized strength of 13,700 men, an armored division 14,600.

Present permanent strength— cadres of trained men—in those divisions is believed to be less than half of authorized combat strength.

Draft Spurs Volunteers The Defense Department and Army now are completing de- tailed plans for adding manpow- er, training men and converting the three STRAF divisions to combat outfits. Then they will be added to the 14 combat divisions now in the Army.

The threat of the draft is spur- ring voluntary recruiting for all services. Only the Army uses the draft.

Nelson Signs Succession of Office Bill

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Senate passed and sent to the governor Monday a measure to provide an orderly replacement of state officers in case an enemy attack should kill or injure a number of them.

Six successors to the office of governor are named in the bill.

In order they are, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, at- torney general, state treasurer, speaker of the Assembly, and president pro tem of the Senate.

Other state officers, including legislators, would be asked to name three to seven possible successors.

Local Action Advised Local governing bodies are re- quested by the measure to enact local resolutions or ordinances on succession which are consistent with the state provisions.

Also approved, and sent to the Assembly, was a bill to require any person employing migrant la- bor to have quarters for such help licensed by the State Board of Health.

Violators would be subject to a maximum fine of $250.

The Senate killed a measure that would have allowed municip- al redevelopment authorities to act on blight elimination or slum clearance projects by two-thirds vote of the municipality's govern- ing body. A four-fifths vote now is required to obtain lands in a project area.

Kennedy Hails Farm Program As He Signs Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presi- dent Kennedy signed into law to- day a new farm program which he called "a major step toward a sound agricultural economy and a better life for the farmers of this country."

Present at the White House signing were leaders of Congress, key men on the Senate and House Agriculture committees, heads of five major farm organizations and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

The new law permits higher farm price supports in return for a 10 per cent cut in wheat acre- age; a continuation next year of the emergency feed grains pro- gram; and extension of a number of other farm programs—includ- ing surplus disposal and school milk programs—for varying peri- ods of years.

Kennedy said the law will per- mit expansion of markets, a re- duction of the stocks of wheat and feed grains, and a lessening of the burden on taxpayers.

Titan Silo Door Slams; 5 Killed

8 Workmen Injured During Tragedy at Buckley Field

DENVER (AP)—A 56-ton steel door slammed at a Titan missile launching silo Monday, killing five workmen and injuring eight others Monday.

Three bodies were recovered. Two others were pinned between the door and the edge of the huge silo. A spokesman at Buckley

Field, scene of the tragedy, said the door may be as long as 72 hours be- fore the door can be raised.

Engineering Problem "It presents considerable of an engineering problem," said a spokesman for one of the civilian contractors on the $160-million construction job.

Buckley Field identified two of the dead as Jerry E. Brancio of Denver and George Graham of nearby Aurora.

Only two of the injured men were hospitalized. Charles W. Postle, 42, of nearby Aurora and Howard Hoffman, 56, of Littleton, Colo. The others were treated and released. Postle suffered a broken back.

Witnesses said some of those who were injured leaped into safety nets placed at intervals in the 165-foot silo.

The massive door was one of a pair which are raised hydraulic- ally as a missile rides to the sur- face.

A spokesman at the missile complex said either a hydraulic failure or failure of a retaining cable caused the door to crash.

It cracked and split with a tre- mendous roar.

The tragedy scene was the first of a Titan three-site complex to be turned over to military con- trol. Each site on the Colorado plains will have a capacity of six missiles.

General Agreement On U.S. Aid Plans

Some Nations Object to Coordinated Planning of Latin American Economy

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — Latin-American leaders generally agreed today with the aims of President Kennedy's sweeping program for hemisphere development, but the biggest nations objected to a U.S. call for coordination of economic planning.

With the exception of Cuban economic czar Ernesto Guevara, delegates to the Inter-American Conference lauded the U.S. offer of long-term multibillion-dollar aid to help raise Latin-American living standards.

However, serious objections were expressed to the proposal for a seven-man planning committee of experts to coordinate development programs in the various countries.

Some Object

Such key nations as Argentina, Chile, Brazil and Mexico have strong reservations about centralizing direction of continental planning. These countries want to plan their own way out of their individual problems and prefer an individual approach, even though the process might take longer.

Argentina, Mexico and Chile indicate they feel they are making other significant strides on their own in planning. Brazil, largest of the Latin-American countries, considers itself a case apart, worthy of special treatment.

Program Outlined

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon outlined the Kennedy program at Monday's session. He pledged the United States to a 10-year development program involving more than a billion dollars a year in U.S. contributions alone to help lift Latin America out of its centuries-old rut of misery and illiteracy.

Dillon offered U.S. guarantees to development loans on a long-term basis "running where appropriate up to 50 years." Most of these loans, Dillon told the delegates, would be "at very low or zero rates of interest." The loans would actually amount to 80 per cent grants and would match or better the terms offered by the Soviet Union in its loans to backward nations.

Dillon warned Latin-American wealthy landlords they would have to sacrifice many of their traditional privileges if the plan were to succeed. He referred to honest tax structures, surrender of vast landholding rights and other accommodations to the 20th century.

Scientists Say That Vostok II Really Orbited

Appears Unlikely - That Russians Tried Tape Recorder Use

BY ARTHUR J. SNIDER
Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO — Some lay citizens may be in doubt, but a scientist engaged in research on intelligence and counterintelligence devices says the scientific community accepts completely the fact of Russian space achievements.

"There is no reason to doubt it," said Monte Ross, associate director of Hallcrafters Research.

"It would be too risky politically to pull off a hoax. If one small detail went wrong, exposure would be damaging to the believability of the Russians in many spheres of activity."

Actually There

Tracking of the vehicle by stations that continually monitor space and separate vehicles from debris established the presence of Vostok II.

Monitoring of voice communications established that there was a two-way conversation and that one of the voices emanated from the capsule.

This, however, does not rule out the possibility that the Russians might put a tape-recorded voice on board.

But Ross points out that American intelligence could evaluate how relevant is the information transmitted with reference to the position in flight.

Errors Cumulative

If the orbit differed from pre-flight calculations of which it should be, the voice description would not fit the position in time and space, particularly since orbital errors are cumulative.

Alton Anderson, director of research at Cook Research Laboratories, said it is conceivable that several different tapes of voices could be put aboard and the proper tape triggered from the ground.

But all the scheming, designing and calculating to pull off an intrigue sufficiently clever to cover all loopholes would require an effort better spent in legitimate space planning, Anderson said.

Ross and Anderson agreed that it would be extremely difficult to fake a flight, although one can never be 100 per cent certain it is not done. There can always be a lingering doubt that the man is in the capsule.

The Russians transmit pictures of the cosmonaut from the capsule but these can be seen only as the spacecraft passes over Russian territory.

Louis Ray, 74, a Syracuse construction worker, is comforted by bystanders after being pinned under a truck Monday. Ray was directing the truck to a pick-up point when the vehicle toppled over. Fellow workers and police used a trench digging machine to pull the truck from Ray's legs. He remained calm throughout the ordeal. He is listed in fair condition at a Syracuse hospital.

Plane Hijackers Indicted On Kidnaping Charges

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Two Arizona men today were described as quiet, cooperative prisoners with healthy appetites although they face possible life imprisonment after a thwarted attempt to deliver a Continental Airlines jet, its crew and hostage passengers to Cuba.

Leon Bearden, 38, and his son, Cody, 16, kept in separate cells in the county jail here, showed little emotion as they received copies of the indictment handed down Monday by a federal grand jury.

The indictment charged the Beardens, of Coolidge, Ariz., with kidnaping members of the plane's crew and transporting the aircraft, crew and hostages across state lines. They will be arraigned in U.S. District Court at 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

The prisoners were not allowed to talk with newsmen but jailers said they had no trouble with the Beardens. They said neither the father nor son had any conversation except with investigating officers.

Held on $100,000 bond each, they probably will be brought to trial soon after Labor Day.

Workers Clean Up On Wine Instead Of on Windows

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — Police Chief Louis Allen said a couple hired to clean windows in the Episcopal Church of the Messiah here during the weekend cleaned up the stock of Communion wine instead.

Edgar and Elizabeth Morgan, natives of Wallhalla, S.C., were arrested on charges of drunkenness and larceny. He said they had six full bottles of wine in their car and told officers they had downed four already.

Mrs. Morgan reported she had a "smashing headache" the next day. Morgan said he had asked "the Lord to forgive me and I hope He will."

Strictly Business? Dozens of Senators Get Ready to Take Junkets

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators if House members decide to attend the London meeting as well as the other two.

Named by Johnson

An even dozen Democratic senators drew a NATO assignment when Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson handed out the plums Monday. Republicans will send only four, since they didn't go into the business of selecting alternate delegates as their Democratic colleagues did.

Another dozen Democrats and four Republicans will go to the Brussels meeting. The London conference will draw four Democrats and two Republicans.

These assignments about use up the conference possibilities but those of the remaining 62 senators who have the urge to travel know from past experience there is rich ore to be mined in Senate committees.

The Appropriations, Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees are always sending off delegations to investigate conditions in distant parts. Strangely enough, the Interior Committee can provide some interesting spots to visit, because it is concerned with insular possessions, some of which are distant from the interior.

Senators don't like to have any of these journeys alluded to as junkets. They say, sometimes with a far-away look, that they are strictly business.

Former GOP Chairman, Thruston B. Morton, Backs Long-Range Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, former Republican national chairman, today threw his support behind President Kennedy's long-range foreign aid program.

Kennedy seeks Treasury borrowing authority to finance a five-year, $8-billion loan program for development of struggling new nations.

Morton, in a prepared Senate speech, said the proposal was "identical in principle" with one advocated by former President D. Eisenhower in 1957, for which 21 Republicans now in the Senate voted at the time.

Same Principle

"I see no reason in principle that they should not support the same proposal when made by this administration," he said.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., however, has predicted that 30 to 36 Senate Republicans will vote for an amendment sponsored by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., to require that financing of the loan program come from annual appropriations.

Aiken, in another prepared speech, called the authority to borrow from the Treasury "primarily a grab for power" that would rob Congress of its control over the foreign aid program.

Aiken Opposed

"The President requests Congress to give him authority to bet $9 billion in the game of power politics, with no assurance that it will not be lost," Aiken said.

Texts of the speeches were released in advance but there was no assurance they would be delivered today. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., after speaking nearly nine hours Monday, expected to talk for at least another eight hours today against Senate confirmation of Lawrence J. O'Connor Jr. as a member of the Federal Power Commission.

A total of $1,187,000,000 of the loan money for the first year is part of this year's $4,326,500,000 foreign aid program on which the Senate hoped to resume debate today, with no votes expected until later in the week.

Administration leaders contended they have enough votes to reject the Byrd amendment by a razor-edge margin. Should the Byrd forces lose, a series of amendments will be proposed to put other congressional controls over the development loan program.

Space Rodent Sacrificed for Sake of Science

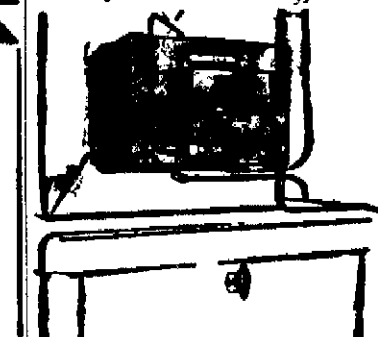

PARIS (AP)—Hector, the little white rat the French fired up about 65 1/2 miles into space in February, was sacrificed for science while the world was acclaiming Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov Monday.

Hector, who survived his trip atop a French Veronique rocket, was put to death so scientists could make microscopic studies of his brain tissue.

A report on what the studies show will be presented to the tenth International Congress of Aeronautical Medicine in late September.

Founder of MRA, Dr. Buchman, Dies in Germany

FREUDENSTADT, Germany (AP) — Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, founder of the Moral Rearmament Movement, died here Monday night after a heart attack. He was 83.

The Pennsylvania-born Lutheran clergyman died while resting in a suite at his hotel in this Black Forest resort where he first had the inspiration to found his movement.

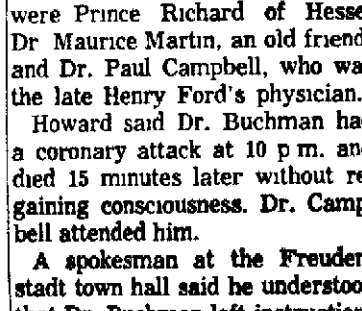

Dr. Buchman was here for a holiday and rest.

Peter Howard, British newsman and author and one of Dr. Buchman's closest friends, was with him when he died. Also present were Prince Richard of Hesse, Dr. Maurice Martin, an old friend, and Dr. Paul Campbell, who was the late Henry Ford's physician.

Howard said Dr. Buchman had a coronary attack at 10 p.m. and died 15 minutes later without regaining consciousness. Dr. Campbell attended him.

A spokesman at the Freudenstadt town hall said he understood that Dr. Buchman left instructions for his burial in his home town, Peunsburg, Pa.

Dr. Buchman was the undisputed head of the MRA movement, and there was no immediate indication of his successor at the worldwide movement's headquarters in Caux, Switzerland.

Soviet Workers Ask for Increase in Working Day

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio reported two huge meetings of defense workers in the Soviet Union called on the government Monday night to step up their working day from seven to eight hours.

In the aftermath of Premier Khrushchev's speech warning that Soviet defense readiness may be accelerated, thousands of workers at a Moscow armaments factory staged one rally, it said.

In Leningrad the night shift at an armaments factory said it was willing to put in an extra hour a day to contribute to defense capacity, the radio added.

U. S. Leaders Find Little New In Khrushchev

Neither White House,
State Department
Have Commented

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposal to "negotiate in an honest way" on Berlin drew generally skeptical reaction from congressional and diplomatic sources.

U.S. experts found little that was new on Khrushchev's plan for Berlin in the Soviet leader's radio-TV speech Monday.

The White House left open the possibility that President Kennedy might comment after a translation can be studied.

The State Department also was officially silent.

U.S. officials, however, still expect the Berlin question to result in negotiations late this year, and not until then do they expect Khrushchev to reveal what concessions he might have in mind.

Once again the Soviet premier said he planned to sign a peace treaty with the Communist East German government.

Also, as he has in the past, Khrushchev denied any intent to "infringe upon any lawful interests of the Western powers" in Berlin.

Fulbright Comments

Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that Khrushchev was "more positive than he has been before" in his statement denying plans for a new Berlin blockade.

"I believe he wants to negotiate about Berlin," Fulbright said. "Whether he wants to negotiate on the basis of what is yours is mine is another matter. Nevertheless, I don't see why we cannot take the position that these differences should be discussed."

One problem in any negotiations is that Khrushchev and the Western powers do not agree on what the West's "lawful interests" in Berlin are.

Khrushchev Plain

Khrushchev has made plain that under his proposed treaty the West must seek its access to West Berlin from the East German regime, which the West does not recognize and which has threatened to shut down Western activities in the city.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Khrushchev appeared to be talking "in the language of both war and peace."

"It is to be devoutly hoped that unlike the great Russian novel of that title, the balance this time is on the side of peace," Mansfield said.

Kuchel Speaks

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, the assistant Republican leader, said he felt the speech had a belligerent tone.

"If, God forbid, war should come, Khrushchev will be the aggressor. He knows it and the world knows it," Kuchel said.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said he believes the Khrushchev statements "open the way for negotiations" despite the threats the Soviet premier made.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, said the Khrushchev speech should clinch passage of President Kennedy's foreign aid program.

The speech proved, he said, that "we are faced with an intensified Communist propaganda program filled with threats, with the possibility of war."

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., a member of the Foreign Relations Committee said, "I think Khrushchev took a good, long step forward in what he said about maintaining access to Berlin."

Aiken said he thinks it is "time for both sides to stop shaking missiles and start talking."

Russia's Latest Space Feat

Maj. Gherman Stepanovich Titov, the second Russian to be propelled into space and to orbit the earth, is the new hero of the Soviets and of a large part of the world. The new Russian "Eagle," as he calls himself, is living proof that the Russians have men with the courage and stamina to explore space. The Russian scientists have proved again that they have the brains and the technical knowledge to hurl the 10,000-pound space craft into orbit more than a hundred miles from the earth and, what is even more difficult, to bring it safely to earth again.

It is a tremendous feat. There is no doubt it has the world agog. But it is a sign of the times that this feat today is a far lesser thing than it would have been only a few months ago. In fact, the Russian accomplishment, great as it is, came as no surprise to Americans generally. Our scientists have been frank in appraising the Russian accomplishments of the past and in predicting what they might do in the future. Consequently the flight of Maj. Titov was not unexpected. Furthermore, there is in Washington all signs of quiet confidence that American scientists can do the same all in due time.

Some of the Congressional leaders have expressed the fear that the space vehicle which Maj. Titov rode could have some military advantages. It is believed that the Russians having gone thus far can now, or shortly will be able to, fire a space ship which carries a nuclear bomb. It is this thought which makes it difficult for Americans, as well as many other western peoples, to cheer the Russian accomplishment as it deserves. It is hard to be happy over a feat which may be the forerunner of our own destruction. Thus the thought which comes to most people is that it is too bad there is not more evidence that the knowledge gained from this experiment will be used for peaceful purposes.

If all the world scientists were given access to the information possible to gather by such spacecraft a tremendous advance would be made. How much better that would be than to have America spend millions and perhaps billions of dollars duplicating the work the Russian scientists already have done in propelling their ship into space. These dollars could better be used for new advances. President Kennedy has called upon the Russians to share their new knowledge.

However, there is at the moment no indication that any such cooperative effort will be possible. The Russians have been given great advantages and a position of genuine power as a result of their space studies. It is sincerely to be hoped that they will realize that such a privileged position as they have attained must hold some demand for responsibilities on their part. They now have in their hands an instrument with which they easily could secure the peaceful coexistence which they often talk about. If they were to accept President Kennedy's proposal and open their scientific discoveries for the use of scientists all around the world and to join with other nations in a sincere effort to discover the other secrets of space, they indeed would be close to winning the confidence of the world and the safety of mankind in all areas of whatever political color.

The Governor and Conservation

Gov. Nelson very well may build a lasting record as a leader of the state government in the field of natural resources conservation, where he has shown a disposition to say some of the things that have needed to be said, and to put his name and his prestige behind some of the proposals that have needed to be made.

A noteworthy illustration has been his steady and courageous denunciation of the excessive mechanization of the ancient and noble sport of fishing, and his prophetic warnings about the relation of the combination of rapidly increasing numbers of boats and rapidly enlarging horsepower upon the recreational utility of the smaller lakes of our state.

The governor not long ago publicly spanked the conservation commission, containing several of his own appointees, for proposing an extension of the zone in which motor trolling by fishermen is permitted. There are opposing views on this matter, as we have no doubt from observing the public controversies. Yet to anyone who loves fishing, the idea of trolling must appear about as sporting as does partridge or deer hunting from an automobile on the road.

The governor has asked for a beginning mechanism of control of the use of powered craft on smaller lakes, in the interest of a fair distribution of the use rights of such waters. As in other foresighted conservation matters, the legislature has spurned him, without anyone on the leadership side of either house deigning to offer anything that remotely resembles constructive rebuttal.

Yet let the boater, or the cottager who visits the tourist precincts only for rest and relaxation, or the fisherman, or the bather, observe what his own eyes can tell him about the congestion of boats and the traffic patterns on some of the smaller, more accessible and more intensively used lakes today, and then reflect what the trend of increased boat ownership and expanding leisure time portends for such waters a few years hence.

Parenthetically, we may reflect also about the indifference of some of the official spokesmen for conservation causes in Wisconsin on these issues that Mr. Nelson has raised, the otherwise vocal Izaak Walton League, the Conservation Congress, the Wisconsin Conservation Alliance and others, and the Wisconsin state conservation administration.

Planning for Growth

Now that Alaska is a state, the residents are expecting and experiencing a boom in immigration. Anchorage, the biggest city in the forty-ninth state, is making extensive plans to avoid haphazard growth.

In the last decade, Anchorage has grown from 11,000 to 44,000. The immediate area now has some 88,000 people including the military, but authorities estimate that there will be some 225,000 there within the next 20 years. The last ten years have been accompanied by the usual unplanned additions, confusion over zoning, changing of traditional residential areas to industrial and struggles over annexation and public services.

The former planning director of Anchorage, who now is community planner with the Alaska State Housing Authority, has presented a long range plan drawn up by an engineering and planning corporation. The blueprint wipes out the vague alleys and streets which make up more than 40 per cent of the downtown areas, outlines the gradual development of five major employment centers and sets up a borough-system of government to do away with suburb annexation problems. Areas of universities, hospitals, airfields, transportation, heavy and light industry, as well as civic centers, commercial, entertainment and residential areas are defined.

Obviously Anchorage will have many problems ahead in the purchase of land for future use, condemnation of property, zoning disagreements, the shifting of industry already established, and the closing of traditional avenues. But recognition of the need for long-range planning is at least a third of the battle.

Just Who Is the Martyr?

United Nations Ambassador Adlai Stevenson feels any attack by the United States upon Red Cuba would give Fidel Castro "an aura of martyrdom" and raise his influence among our southern neighbors, according to his report on his tour of Latin America.

Almost all reports from Latin America indicate that the uneducated and the hungry definitely consider Castro a hero for his defiance of the United States. Mr. Stevenson says that some of the leaders think we will suffer more from Castro's Communism than they will and naturally they rather like seeing us get our comeuppance.

It was this fear of making a martyr of Castro and of being accused of intervention that caused President Kennedy to call off the planned air and sea support for the Cuban rebel invasion last winter. It has been this fear that has stopped any chance of our moving in and taking back the hijacked commercial plane. It lets us permit a Red regime 90 miles from our shores.

But does Castro's lack of martyrdom do anything to lower his prestige in Latin America? Could it actually get any higher? There is strong suspicion that our toleration of Castro has proved to at least some Latin American leaders that the threat of Communism is the best weapon they have with which to blackmail us. Brazil's President Quadros has spent most of his eight months in power sniping at us and wooing the Russians despite our extensive aid. The people of British Guiana have fairly elected a pro-Communist regime to take over when they are granted almost full independence this month.

We know that many people in Latin America are pleased when we get a kick in the teeth. To some extent a few of them may be justified but most of the bad feeling simply is because we are rich and successful and they aren't. Helping to open the door to a Red take-over in Latin America is not the way to defend our nation or help them defend theirs.

Well-Equipped Gyms and Pools Serve Real Purpose in Small Towns

Editor, Post-Crescent:

It is because my husband and I have had many discussions with each other and with people of varied fields, that I feel slightly qualified to give this opinion on the advantage of large gymnasiums and pools in the schools being built now and in the future. We are in the teaching field and we have worked in crowded and spacious areas. In this day, when spectator sports have become too popular, and active participation a tiresome thing; when we know that all the people in this great country need to be more physically fit, we know that spacious gyms and pools will give us all the opportunity to fulfill this obligation to get and keep fit. These gyms are forever in use — it is difficult to find a gymnasium empty. In our little towns, they are used for youth centers, youth league games, playground activities, and of course, physical education classes every school day. Our youth, and our adults alike, are finding it, not only a place to "let off steam", but a place to keep our bodies fit and enjoy moments of relaxation through these activities.

I do agree that it sometimes seems senseless, that the only time some adults see the inside of a gymnasium, is when they watch a basketball game, where approximately 28 boys are participating, (then there's a preliminary game, where approx. 28 more play, and often a tumbling or dance demonstration with about 30-40 more participating) and everyone in the bleachers is trying to teach the coach and the boys how to play the game — but — it is this game, and the game of football that earns the money to buy the equipment needed for these big gyms and athletic fields and pools. These boys are actually assisting the towns and school boards, with their athletic competition, to buy the equipment needed: tumbling, mats, basketballs, volleyballs, climbing ropes, stall bars, etc., etc. — this used in physical education classes each day, and by the boys in practice and in games. Many people would be astonished to learn of the cost to equip one boy with a football helmet and shoes, and more astonished to hear the cost to equip one boy, fully, so that he may play with the greatest safety and protection. But, these boys are self and school supporting — they pay a big "hunk" of the school bills.

I'm sure most of us agree that we need to use these gyms and pools and athletic fields — that we should stress physical fitness in every student from kindergarten through college, and onward. I hope you will soon agree that we need big ones to accommodate the growing population and that it will be more satisfactory for teachers and students alike, if we do not need to move desks away, or work in halls, and that the best job can be done for your children (or grandchildren) in well equipped buildings. These youngsters need to begin, now, to concentrate on building healthy, strong bodies, so body and mind are equipped to face the rugged future they have. Please don't deny them — and if your town can pull together enough to help our athletes to help themselves and their fellow students, we feel you should vote for these opportunities for them to accomplish this goal.

Fears of international repercussions from Spain's civil war

Potomac Fever — by Fletcher Knebel

The moral of the day seems to be that you can hijack a plane in the United States, but you'd better not try it in Texas.

Congress rushes more billions for defense. Democrats seem determined to stand firm inside Berlin — and outside Havana.

Sad days for the British. They'll have to go shopping in Europe's common market. In the old days everything was bench-made — and delivered from the Punjab.

When Kennedy picks up the phone and hears, "Hi, Jack." He's not sure it's Bobby wishing him well — or J. Edgar Hoover reporting loss of another airliner.

Thirty-two is the ideal age. Old enough to know what you're doing — and young enough to do it anyway.

Treasury boss Dillon heads a 42-man delegation to a conference in Uruguay. Bring that outfit up to strength with a couple of replacements — and it could invade Cuba.

Decorum Missing as Senate Debates Tax

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — If a reporter reads a newspaper in the state senate press gallery, an officious attendant will reprimand him. If a tourist lights a cigarette in the gallery, there will be an imperious member of the sergeant's staff at his side in an instant demanding that he put it out. The legislative rulebook is full of requirements for what is euphemistically known as decorum.

The trouble is that the persons who ought to be decorous, the members of the legislature themselves, often comport themselves in such a way as to suggest to the outside world that they don't know the meaning of the word.

The artificially prolonged debates on the tax problem now confronting the state and the proposal of the Republican legislative majority for tax revision have been about as undignified and ill-natured as anything this reporter has observed in a quarter of a century of close attendance upon legislative politics in Wisconsin.

THE TENOR

Members have exchanged insults on the floor that in a more civilized age would have required combat resolution. There have been epithets and allusions that perilously approached the speech of the gutter.

There have been accusations couched in such coarse lan-

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—Wayne Rehn, a veterinary medical student at the University of Illinois, is experimenting with a method of capping a cow's teeth to prolong its useful life.

It is the cow's version of false teeth.

Capping teeth of cattle was introduced by a Nebraska dentist last year. Sand in sandy pastures or acid from beet pulp diets wears down the teeth. These conditions make mature cattle worthless within three years.

In an experiment at a station, one group of seven and eight-year-old cattle with worn teeth will receive caps and another tooth-worn group will remain uncapped.

Clothing Is Sent to

Hong Kong Refugees

HONOLULU (AP)—More than a ton of clothing has been collected in Honolulu for delivery aboard the Navy tanker Ponchatoula to Hong Kong refugees.

A number of Hawaii churches have joined the clothing drive as part of President Kennedy's people-to-people campaign. The Navy is donating the transportation.

The Ponchatoula is scheduled to sail for the Far East this summer.

guage that if they were heard among children on a school ground a school principal with any sense of discipline would order expulsions. There have been charges uttered from the immunity of the legislative floor that in any other context would bring slander suits, or a call from the district attorney.

Politicians often indulge in self-pity about the ingratitude of the electorate, about the lack of public respect for their services and their work, about the imputation of disrespect that is found in many citizen's voices in the very pronunciation of the word "politician."

But the sideline with some regard for the dignity and importance of government and the vital need for public understanding and participation in politics must conclude that whatever troubles the politician has in this regard he has frequently brought upon himself.

It is not the purpose of this dispatch to draw distinctions between the parties. Moreover, it is a classic adage in politics that the party that has the votes is content to vote, and the party that lacks the votes must do what it can with talk.

DEMS

The Democrats obviously had to resort to debate to counter the Republican tax plan which many of them deeply detest, whatever more neutral students might conclude about the merits of the proposition. Debate is an essential tool of democratic self-government.

Only through fullest discussion and debate can the popular understanding upon which self-government must rest be achieved. Often through full and forceful debate majorities can be persuaded to accept the modifications and compromises which are the essence of democratic procedures in legislation.

But much of the talk in the legislature during the last three weeks could not be dignified with the word debate, even by the most fervently loyal partisans. It was harangue, and worse. It was bad temper, and bad manners. Happily the galleries usually were empty — which may show something of the problem the minority has in dramatizing its position with the electorate at home.

Had the galleries been occupied with a fair sprinkling of the opinion makers in the local districts of many of the leaders in the misnamed "debates", the prestige of the legislature would have sagged even more. Whatever the outcome of this issue, which will inevitably dominate the next political campaign, some of these men when their tempers cool will regret their tasteless performance.

Hawaiian Company Is Sponsor for Course

HONOLULU (AP)—A Honolulu firm, C. Brewer and Co., has announced sponsorship of on-the-job training for students at the University of Hawaii's East West Cultural and Education center.

The company is the first in the U.S. to announce participation in the center program, designed to bring students of Asia, America and the Pacific together.

University President Laurence H. Snyder said the Brewer program would include a week-long summer agricultural study tour and one to three months on-the-job training for foreign students taking agricultural courses. The company owns much of Hawaii's farm land and specializes in growing sugar cane.

Situation in Berlin Same as in '58, '59

Average Citizen Wonders Why 2 Nations Don't Start Negotiating

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — At this point the average citizen in America and the Soviet Union may be wondering why the United States and Russia don't start talking about Berlin instead of talking about talking.
President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev have talked repeatedly of their willingness to have American-Russian discussions on the German city but any start of such discussions still seems a long way off.

It's as if the two giants of the world—this country and Russia—had to go into a slow waltz every time they heard the Berlin music played. They went through pretty much the same routine in 1958 and 1959.

Yards of Notes
Since Khrushchev started the rumpus last June 3-4 at his Vienna meeting with Kennedy — by demanding once again the allies get out of Berlin — there have been yards and yards of American notes, Soviet notes, allied notes.

So far neither side has made a direct suggestion to the other that they sit down together and get moving.

Khrushchev in his speech Monday night—addressed to the Soviet people but aimed at Kennedy—played a kind of hot weather Santa Claus. He had a little of something for everybody.

Usual Talk
As usual he warned the United States it would get its come-uppance if it started a war. But he also said "let's not create hysteria" and proposed: "Let's sit down around a table and negotiate in an honest way."

He complimented Kennedy for showing common sense in wishing to avoid war but at the same time said the United States and its allies "are pushing the world to a dangerous brink."

This speech was in reply to one Kennedy gave July 25 on Berlin. The President's tough talk of that date reportedly angered Khrushchev. If so, it didn't show up in Monday's talk which was notable for two things:

Two Points
1. It showed much more restraint than Khrushchev has used at other times.
2. It gave an impression—when he noted Kennedy's decision to build up the American armed forces—that this whole thing might get out of hand.

Kennedy's July 25 talk was obviously intended both to show Khrushchev the allies would not back down on Berlin and to cool him off a bit. Khrushchev appeared a little cooled.

Nevertheless, this situation is beginning to look like one in which one word could lead to another until both sides got in deeper than they wanted or expected.

Too Much Talk
Too much has been said on both sides now to remember it all without a file. But if you had such a file some of Khrushchev's performances at this point would look almost giddy in accomplishing what he said he wanted to avoid.

Last June 28 he said that if the West called for mobilization of its armed forces the Soviets would "take the necessary steps to strengthen our security."

Ten days passed in which the West did not mobilize. Then suddenly on July 8 Khrushchev said most ancient forms of diplomatic ductions, promised a couple of years ago, would jump its defense spending 25 per cent this year.

It's Time to Check Up on Child's Health

It's health and dental check-up time for children who will be going to school this fall.

Kaukauna City Nurse Miss Alice Imig asked that kindergarten children get immunization against whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, smallpox and polio as well as having physical and dental examinations.

Kindergarten and sixth grade children are asked by Appleton Public school officials to bring doctors' reports to school with them in September.

Report forms were given to the children this spring. The reports tell the school what immunizations the child has had, whether he is capable of carrying a full program of school work, extracurricular activities and physical education and whether he needs special seating or other special attention.

School nurses interpret the reports to teachers and follow up with the school and home.

Before school starts also is a good time for children to get their eyes and ears checked, as any handicap can be corrected. Children learn best if they can see the blackboards and books and hear what the teacher is saying.

Summer vacation is the ideal time for children's dental check-ups. For Cities dentists point out. Appointments are available so that if additional sessions are needed, they may be arranged before school starts.

Teachers Go To Work Before Their Students

It's Not Accidental
Things are Ready
When Classes Begin

When the youngsters get to school this fall they'll probably find everything all set—books, paper and supplies in place, lessons planned, plants watered and introductions written on the blackboard.

It's not by accident. School systems have planned orientation and preparation periods for their teachers beginning as much as two weeks before the children return.

Principals of Appleton public elementary schools will return to work Aug. 15. Some have been working all summer.

New teachers in Appleton elementary schools will report Aug. 29. The city Parent-Teachers Association Council will treat them to a luncheon at Huntley School that day.

Kurtz to Speak

The orientation for all teachers will begin the next morning, when Supt. Royce E. Kurtz will speak at a general meeting. The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a community orientation program for new public and parochial school teachers the morning of Aug. 31. The public school orientation program continues the morning of Sept. 1 with a program including a speech by Dr. Granger E. Westburg, of the University of Chicago, on "The Teacher and Psychosomatic Medicine."

Afternoons of the orientation week are left for meetings in individual schools and work by the teachers in their classrooms.

Chamber of Commerce members have volunteered to act as hosts for the community tour. Each will meet a small group of teachers at Conway Hotel in the morning and drive them on a police-escorted circle of the city.

The newcomers will see City Hall; schools; churches; hospitals; parks; offices; golf and supper clubs; industries; swimming pools; historical markers: Lawrence College, the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center and the Institute of Paper Chemistry;

Casual, Sporty Air Sets Pace for '61 Back to School Fashion Parade

A casual air marks the back to school fashions for 1961. Classrooms will buzz with the excitement of fashion news when the students gather again in the fall.

Strong colors and black will undoubtedly be the subject of much conversation. Other outstanding colors for fall are purple-pink tones, bright blues and greens and the rust to gold family. The clear happy colors are most welcome after the dark murky shades of the last few years.

Dyed to Match Sportswear

Coordination runs rampant with sweaters, vests, skirts and stretch tights, all dyed to match. Sportswear for little girls is all coordinates, in pink-magenta, undiluted blues, greens and golds. The youngsters are favoring the crop or tunic blouses, topping pleated or flared skirts and pants. Sweaters for the young miss are all long and boxy, with big novelty collars standing away from the neck.

Scandinavian influence creates a large part of the fashion excitement in the form of jumpers and jacket effects, in border trimmed skirts and embroidery or rickrack on jackets, borders, bodices and jumper straps. The peasant costume theme also appears in the strong color contrast of the trim against the body color of the dress.

Pattern, whether in the fabric itself or as trimming, shows increased importance this year, and at long last is actually scaled to children's sizes. Prints as well as trim are neat and sophisticated in geometric, floral and stripe designs. Longer length sleeves are an important part of the fashion silhouette and the bib takes on a new face with bold, contrasting trim.

Washable Fabrics

Cotton is the outstanding fabric for little girls. Almost all are machine washable and need only touch up ironing.

Dresses-in-pieces are the big steal from sportswear tradition. Almost every manufacturer goes full speed ahead with dress and jacket, vest or pinafore ensembles, everything detachable.

Corduroy is showing up in many ensembles. Wide wale and pinwale both have many uses in dresses, dusters, skirts and vests, as well as in slacks and cropped tops.

Homespun cotton, slubbed synthetics, cotton ticking and denim give dresses an extra measure of casual sporty appeal. Cotton knit numbers, often jacquard patterned, show up for school wear most often, though a few look pretty enough for parties.

Dress-up Fashions

For dress-up occasions, velvet, suede-cloth tent dresses with eyelet trimming and princess styles are just the ticket.

Cotton suede-cloth stars in little girl coats also, most often trimmed or lined in synthetic lamb. More furs, fake or otherwise, show up in pile linings, racoon or lynx collars, teddy-bear coats and jackets with shaggy fur-trimmed hoods. All the coats are of sporty and suburban looking fabrics, carrying out the casual look for '61.

Laminates are in for fall also. Poplin, twill and corduroy make laminated numbers that look as right for the stadium as the school-bus. Shapes are loose, styling simple, with slash pockets, saddle stitching and rugged-looking buttons fitting in with the sporty theme.

Simplicity Makes Point

Fleeces and tweeds take simple lines, often relying on dolman sleeves, scarf collars or novelty buttons to make a fashion point.

Welts or crossbar seaming in dress-up coats for the young miss is Paris-inspired with a flare from collar to hem.

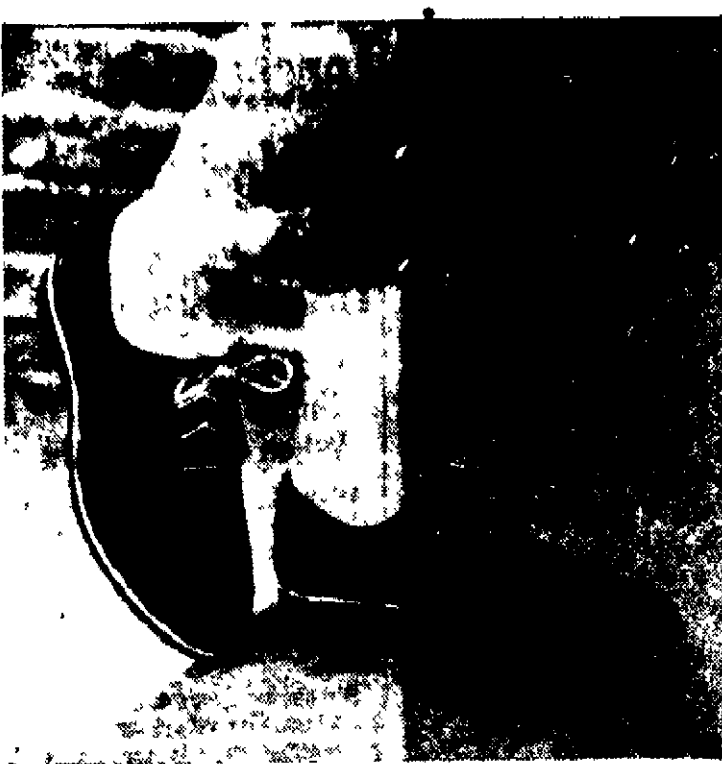

Fashions are altogether casual and countrified, in a sophisticated vein, however. The influence is definitely of the First Lady's doing. Mobility is the keynote. The new shaping, easy bodices and low-flare or low-pleated skirts, fluid lines and swing skirts, is the best thing that has ever happened to little girls. It enhances the figure contour but never confines it.

Fashions for the young man starting his first day of school are also on the casual side. Corduroy is tops here, for little boys as well as for the junior or senior high school student. Still popular are the gold and dull green ivy tones.

Shaggy mohair sweaters, cable-stitched, novelty weaves and crew necks will be seen in all classrooms, with emphasis on wide collars, turned back for the casual approach.

Silent stripes, minutes checks and muted plaids star in the sport coat story. These are teamed with solid color trousers. Last year's vests are this year's stars, commanding a repeat performance.

34,189 Children May Begin Studies In Fox Cities Schools

Total Up 4.6 Pct. Since January; Menasha Shows Drop

BY BONNIE BARTOW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

An estimated 34,189 children will go to elementary and secondary schools in the Fox Cities this fall.

The number doesn't include thousands more who will be attending nursery schools, vocational and adult schools, and colleges here and those who will leave the Fox Cities for preparatory schools, colleges, universities, technical schools, nursing schools and other institutions across the country.

The 34,189 includes about 19,455 pupils who will enroll in public schools, 13,029 in Catholic schools, 1,642 in Lutheran schools and about 63 in Winnebago Day School.

There will be about 26,418 children in kindergarten to eighth grade and 7,771 in grades nine to 12.

The total is an increase of about 4.6 per cent from the approximately 32,690 who attended the same 72 schools (minus two opening for the first time this fall) in January.

Menasha Drop
Included in the survey of enrollment predictions were 13 schools in Neenah, 11 in Menasha, 27 in Appleton school district, seven in Kimberly, Combined Locks and Little Chute and 13 in the towns surrounding Appleton and Neenah.

School population is expected to increase in all municipalities except Menasha where it will be about 5,408 compared with 5,414 last school year.

Neenah enrollment will rise from 4,828 to 5,177. Appleton from 13,610 to 14,139. Kaukauna from 3,526 to 3,665. The Fox Villages from 7,841 to 8,040, and the towns, 1,459 to 1,560.

In Menasha, Kaukauna and the Fox Villages, there will be more children in parochial than public schools. Menasha school officials expect 2,935 students in Catholic schools, 2,231 in public schools and 179 in Trinity Lutheran school.

In Kaukauna, there will be about 1,840 parochial students, 1,680 of them Catholic, and 1,825 faculty at James Stecher at public school students. The village will have 2,288 children in all music.

Conduct, Studying Both Improve When Students Dress Up for School

Educators have indicated there has been a great improvement in the appearance of youngsters in the last five years, according to a survey made by Scholastic Magazine recently.

High school principals interviewed at the annual meeting of the National Association of Secondary School Principals in Des Moines, Iowa, stated: "Our student council was most effective in promoting the 'Dress Right' program for the school."

Ed Hasselblad, Shoreline High School, Seattle, Washington, said: "If they wear good clothes, there's no horsing around."

Another reaction to a "Dress Right" campaign was that of Phil Harmon, Ludington, Mich.: "Clothes don't make the man, but they make him look like one."

In terms of student performance, Raymond Hanson, Bloomington High School, Bloomington, Minn., says: "Now that we are in the fourth year of our 'dress right' program, I can truly say that we have witnessed a great improvement in study habits and behavior patterns of our boys. One of the things that has helped put this program over is that the girls show very successfully, using two of our boys as models in our cafeteria which enhanced school interest."

Fashion shows and "Dress Right" days have been successful deepened.

Plaids, Plaids and Full Skirts will be seen in the elementary schools next month. The girl jumping rope wears a Scandinavian inspired fashion with white woven trim and piping on dark cotton check. The jumper is of muted plaid acrylic and rayon fabric, with pleated skirt, camisole top and tied self-belt. For walking the dog on cold days, a coat lined and trimmed with warm, lightweight acrylic fiber pile and highlighted by braid banding will keep a girl warm. Cotton gingham plaid is sparked with wide black velvet rickrack on white bands in the school dress at right. White collar, cuffs and buttons also highlight the dress.

South Side School Situation Complex For Lower Grades

Excess of Children Over Space Causes District Boundary Shifts

To illustrate the complexity of the school situation on Appleton's south side and to try to clarify it, Supt. Royce E. Kurtz has lines in five colors on six layers of a city map to show boundaries for each school and grade.

The complexity is caused by an excess of children over classroom space south of the river. Sacred Heart Catholic School, filled beyond capacity last year, will have no first grade and take no one from the new St. Bernadette Parish except eighth graders. St. Bernadette is in the southeast part Madison School, first to fifth graders to Foster and sixth graders to Jefferson.

In the rest of the city south of Calumet Street, kindergarten to second graders go to Madison and third to sixth graders to McKinley School.

Between Fremont and Calumet Streets east of the municipal golf course, kindergarten and first graders go to Madison, second to fifth graders to Jefferson and sixth graders to McKinley.

Richmond Area Split

The area northeast of the golf course, including West Court and Avenue, is basically the Richmond district, and kindergarten and first grade children from there go to Richmond. The district is split on different lines for each other grade.

Second to fourth graders in the northeast part of the area go to Edison. The dividing line for second grade is the north side of College Avenue and west side of Christine Street. For third grade it is the south side of College Avenue, west side of Lee Street and south side of John Street. For fourth grade it is the south side of College Avenue, west side of Warner Street, south side of Henry Street and Tehalah Avenue and south side of John Street.

No Sixth Grade

Fifth graders in the northeast area go to Jefferson. The line is along the south side of College Avenue, west side of Warner Street and south side of John Street.

No sixth graders will go to Richmond. Those in the northeast will go to Edison and those in the southwest to Jefferson. The line follows the south side of Harriet Street, west side of Schaefer Street and north side of John Street.

The situation is simplest for the people between the Foster, Madison and Richmond areas. All their children, kindergarten to sixth grade, will go to McKinley School.

Teacher Gets Degree

Ronald L. Knorr, 1628 1/2 W. Rogers Ave., physical education and health teacher at Wilson Junior High School, received a master of science degree in physical education from La Crosse State College, at the end of the summer session.

Perky Peter, a Piranha, hovers over a quarter of a million dollars worth of cultured pearls on display at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York. The fish is billed as a maneater and is employed by the Cultured Pearl Association as a guard for its exhibit at annual convention and trade show of Retail Jewelers of America. As for the gloved hand reaching for the gems, it belongs to the man who reared Perky Peter from infancy. Apparently Perky isn't one to bite the hand that feeds it.

County College Sees Enrollment Of 50 Students

KAUKAUNA—Fifty students are expected to report for classes at Outagamie County Teachers College Aug. 21.

The student body will include 30 new students and 20 returning. Freshmen and new students will register from 9 to 11:30 a. m. Aug. 20 and sophomores from 1 to 3:30 p. m. the same day.

The college expects 13 new and 20 returning pupils to attend the campus elementary school, which includes grade one to eight. Classes begin Sept. 5.

Miss Marguerite Van Hult is a new teacher in the elementary school. E. H. Gordon will be beginning his first full year as president of the institution.

Wilkie St., a dental hygiene student who won an Outagamie County Dental scholarship.

The value of each scholarship is determined by individual needs, and varies from $100 to full tuition and other benefits.

Your Problems

Chasing of Nurse Indicates Patient Nearly Recovered

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a practical nurse for a widower, 61, out of 66. I do the light housework, the cooking, and give him his medicine. He was in an industrial accident three months ago.

At first my patient was very pleasant but now that his health is improving he's getting too frisky. I'm 36 and happily married to a nice fellow. If he knew how this old gaffer limped after me he'd make me quit. The company my patient works for pays him full salary all the time he is recuperating. They also pay me, and I might add, they pay me well. I love my work and this assignment is ideal because the man lives close to our apartment. I'd hate to quit, but now that he's getting stronger I don't know how much longer I can manage him.—S. L.

Dear S.L.: Tell the old gaffer that a guy who is well enough to chase the nurse is well enough to go back to work, and if he doesn't behave himself you will phone his boss and tell him so. When you make your patient clear he'll slumber down. DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been going with this fellow for two years. We got along well together. Our only problem is interference from his family. Please tell me if you think I'm being silly about this one thing: We plan to be engaged on my birthday. Clyde wants to give me a large diamond that belongs to his mother. I don't want it. I've told him I'd prefer a small stone, or none at all. I would feel foolish wearing such a big rock, especially when it's obvious that he could not afford to buy such a ring. (He's 23 and still in school.) He says his mother insists because the family has a reputation to uphold and everyone will be watching to see what kind of ring I get. All this makes me sick to my stomach. How do you feel?—F.E.

Dear F.E.: Stick to your stomach. By all means stick by your principles. If you cave in on this one you'll lose them all from now on.

DEAR ANN: Two weeks ago a family with two teen-age girls moved into the apartment directly above us. The radio goes on at 7:30 a.m. in one room and food the record player starts in another room—about 15 minutes later. Somebody up there plays the piano, too. The other night I was sure they must be pounding carpet tacks into the floor but my husband said they were dancing. I hate to be a complainer but I don't know how much longer we can take it. Would it be best to go to the landlord or shall I speak to the mother of the girls? My sister had the same problem and she went to the landlord. From then on the noise was twice as bad. I'd appreciate your advice.—Aspirin Happy

Dear Aspirin Happy: If you haven't welcomed the new family to the building by all means do so. Bring a cake. Make sure they know you are the lady downstairs. After a friendly visit you'll find them far more amenable to suggestion. The advice is old but it still works with honey than with vinegar." (Copyright, 1961)

Make Little Batches

Don't overload when you are deep-fat frying! Adding too much food at one time reduces the temperature of the fat too much and makes for "greasy" fried food.

As Gay and Colorful as a county fair is this huge leafy green cabbage stuffed with raw vegetable salad and garnished with boiled eggs, tomatoes, radish rosebuds, Brussel's sprouts and green onions. This is one example of many ways to stuff a cabbage and like it. It also makes a dandy centerpiece that's good to eat.

Aging Hands

A young grandmother writes: My hands look older than I do, older than I am. This is due to prominent blue veins that are unattractive as well as aging. Is there any help?

For the legion of mature lovelies with the problem, this answer: The appearance of heavily veined hands can be improved three ways.

The first is so easy, you will not believe its worth until you try it. Simply raise your hands overhead for a few seconds and then lower them. Repeat several times, and the veins will be much less noticeable.

The results are temporary, but

Steinwold Don't Rush To Capture First Trick

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When the opponents open their best suit, don't be in a hurry to win the first trick. Even if you can't save any tricks in the suit, you may cut communications between the opponents.

West opened the queen of hearts, and South made the mistake of winning the first trick. He got to dummy with a club, and lost a spade finesse to the king.

West led the 10 of hearts, and East overtook with the king to lead a diamond through South. Declarer lost a diamond finesse to the queen and later lost a second diamond finesse to the king. South was down one — all because he was in a hurry to win the first trick.

Go back to the first trick and see what happens if West is allowed to win with the queen of hearts. West continues with another heart, and South takes the ace.

Declarer gets to dummy with a club and loses a spade finesse. South draws all of the missing trumps and cashes the clubs, ending in dummy. Then he takes a diamond finesse, losing to the queen.

At this stage West is caught.

If West returns a diamond, South gets a free finesse; and if West returns anything else, dummy ruffs while South discards a diamond.

By refusing the first trick South manages to keep East out of the lead. South is safe as long as East cannot lead a diamond through him.

Question: As dealer you hold: S. A J 10 6; H. A 8; D. A J 10; C. K J 10 5. What do you say?

Busy, Fun-Filled Days at Chalk Hills Camp Are Lasting Memory for Fox Cities Scouts

BY KATHY REARDON

Post-Crescent Society Editor

One hundred young Fox Cities campers, fifth graders through high school juniors, ended their two week stay at Chalk Hills Camp Monday. The fourth and final session begins on Wednesday.

The pleasant camp, owned by Fox River Area Girl Scout Council, is located approximately 110 miles north of Appleton on the shores of the Menominee River. The Scouts have 198 acres of a 4,000 acre forest reservation.

Activities at the 21-year-old camp are varied and many — the girls don't have a chance to get lonesome for the city — there's just too much going on during the waking hours at the northern camp.

Endless Possibilities
The location of the camp, between Chalk Hills Power Dam and White Rapids Power Dam, affords endless possibilities for all types of outdoor activity leading to fun and adventure.

The girls are divided into units according to age and previous camping experience. Each unit works together, planning the things they want to do while at camp. The youngest learn the basic skills of firebuilding, lashing, and using a hatchet. Older campers practice their outdoor skills. Canoe trips are also organized for the older units.

Plan Trips

In preparation for these trips on the Wisconsin, Brule and Menominee Rivers, the units plan and pack food and equipment and select a destination. The trip lasts from four to six days.

Last week a patrol headed out on the Brule River, loaded with equipment and well prepared for the strenuous journey.

The younger girls at the camp live in screened cabins; older campers in screened platform tents. Pioneer campers develop their own site.

Many Activities

Some of the interesting activities in which the girls participate are cookouts, firebuilding, campcraft, singing, exploring, games, dramatics, crafts, campfires, bicycling, overnights, folk dancing, swimming, boating, fishing and conservation, as well as canoeing.

Chalk Hills Camp is one of 25 established troop camps in the United States participating in the "fun on the waterfront" program. This was developed five years ago at one of the national senior camps. Its purpose is two-fold: to interrelate waterfront activities with other activities in camp and to develop girl leadership potential and girl planning. This is done through the patrol system, where eight girls and a leader plan their own program.

Patrol System

The patrol leader within the unit coordinates their program. The patrol system is the type of government most troops use.

Waterfront activities at the camp are stressed. Quite often on Sundays a worship service is conducted on the water in boats. Some of the girls are even trying to learn to fly kites from row boats.

Of course the patrols taking the canoe trips literally live on the water during their excursion up or down one of the rivers.

Youngest Unit

Another group of campers left last week for a four-day back pack trip. They went 10 miles north on the river to their pre-selected destination, taking as much as they could carry on their backs and walking all the way.

The youngest unit, Oak Grove, composed of fifth grade girls, goes on an overnight trip into the woods and also on numerous hikes. The next two units, Popple Knoll and Whip-Poor-Will, have two and three-day overnights. In preparation for this event, the girls clear their campsites, pitch tents, clear a fire circles, lash tables and generally learn how to live comfortably in the out-of-doors.

The land on which the camp is built was given to the council by Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. in 1939 for $1 and a 99-year lease. The first season was in 1940 when 40 campers used the facilities.

Now approximately 100 young women visit the camp during each session. Every year something new is added. This year it was a new lodge and cook's cabin. There has been a major construction project every year since World War II.

A minor catastrophe scarred last month's encampment.

Pushing a Canoe into the placid Menominee River at Chalk Hills are campers Susan Milbauer, Marion, Diane Donaldson, Neenah, and Barbara Scherzinger, Appleton. Canoeing is one of the many activities offered at the Girl Scout camp located about 110 miles from Appleton along the shores of the Menominee River. This session was the third of four. The camp will close Aug. 21. At right, a recent brush fire at the camp inspired some of the campers to build a look-out tower, or tree house. Although it is still under construction, these campers found it a pleasant place to spend a little time. From left are Ann Lacy, Shawano, Susan Olmsted, Marion, and Mary Jaques, Neenah.

Although the Apple pie may not resemble those that Mother makes, to the girls peeling the apples, kneading the crust and watching it bake in the reflector oven the first bite is a thrilling experience. The young cooks are Sandy

Chalk Hills Campers Keep Busy Schedule

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 14 when a brush fire broke out quite close to the camping area. Although it could have developed into a major fire, marring hundreds of acres of the thickly wooded area, the girls were able to put it out in time, even before the fire tower detected it. The campers were able to put to use many of the principles they had learned in their scouting years. "This was a true test of cooperation," Wendy Wyatt, program director, noted.

College Staff
There are tents for 2, 4 or 5 at the camp and cabins for eight. Nineteen college students and teachers staff the units, four work in the kitchen and one, a registered nurse, in the infirmary. Miss Esther Pickles, executive director, heads the camp. Miss Wyatt, a district director, works as program director.

The scouts develop their own program, supervision is not stressed at the camp, rather guidance. Leads are given and the girls pick, discuss, choose and go ahead, doing such things as clearing sites, making string hammocks, building look-out towers (the fire inspired this), planning trips and cooking outdoors. Each unit has an outdoor kitchen for cooking out in the open. All supplies are secured in the main camping area where everything is carefully checked in and out.

Outdoor Kitchens
In one of the outdoor kitchens, shutters from the cabins are placed on legs and used as tables. "In the winter you don't need tables and in the summer you don't need shutters," explained Miss Wyatt, mentioning that everything is utilized at the camp.

Meals are served in the dining hall in the center of camp. All the girls eat here with the exception of those on cookouts or camping trips.

Cook's Tour
After a morning's walk through the woods, getting the cook's tour of the camp, the noon lunch never tasted so good. After eating, the campers, who sit at tables for eight, pitch right in to do their dishes. No one shirks her responsibility. One clears the table, another scrapes the dishes while another gets the hot sudsy water and proceeds to wash the dishes.

All have a duty and all know it. Maybe this is why the camp is so successful and fun—the young women must fare for themselves. No one else will.

Our Children

Grumbling Child Hard on Family

BY ANGELO PATRI

"We have a pleasant home and three fine children. Our home would be heavenly if one of our children could be persuaded to stop grumbling."

We all know about this. We have met the Grumbler often. He appears in all stages of life from the teen-ager on. He upsets his digestion, he loses friends, he doesn't know how to enjoy anything or anybody. Too bad for him and for all who meet him. He spoils the atmosphere of the room he happens to be in, and anywhere he goes he gets nowhere.

The boy that this mother speaks about begins grumbling when he gets up. Somebody has misplaced his toothbrush. Never anything right in this house. He doesn't like Whea ties. Why can't he have Shredded Wheat. The fact that he complained about shredded wheat yesterday does not matter. "Who took my brief case? I did so put it there. Well, if people let my things alone . . . It's maining. Gee. If anything I hate it's rain."

Laugh It Off
This can become the most trying of habits to any family and some way must be found to check it for everybody's sake, particularly for the grumbler. One way is to laugh at him, make his grumbles a joke in the family. Sometimes that shames him out of it.

Another way is to praise and cheer for cheerfulness under stress. Bobby looked out and said, "It's going to rain and the team won't be able to go. Well, maybe Mr. Tully can get us a rain check. You can't schedule weather as you can a team." "Good boy, Bobby. There's nothing like making the best of a bad bargain. There will be a clear day soon." "Yeah," grumbles our family hair shirt. "Everybody in this house is fine, but me. Nobody says anything for me."

"You want to know why," says father. "I'll tell you. Nobody likes the grumbler. Stop grumbling and maybe somebody will cheer for you too."

Praise A Smile
Reward cheerfulness. Praise the one who faces up to a disappointment. Make cheerfulness and the willingness to get around and over-come difficulties praiseworthy and that will go along way toward lessening the grumbles. In desperate circumstances it has been known that a sharp "Shut up" helps.

May favorite recipe is to teach the children Robert Louis Stevenson's "Morning Prayer," and have them recite it before eating breakfast: "The day returns and brings its irritating round of concerns and duties. Help us to play the Man . . ." It is a short prayer, easily learned, and nobody who recites it each morning can help go about his tasks in a better mind.

Cure Doldrums With Summer Beauty Treat

The summer slump is here. Spirits sag and shoulders sag in sympathy. It's hard to look fresh as a daisy when you're feeling limp as a noodle. But it can be done and, for beauty's sake, must be done.

Recommended cure for the slump: Operation Makeover. Do something drastic with your hair. Try an exciting change in makeup. If there's a dollar or two in the sugar bowl treat yourself to a new hat.

It's best to start with a new hair-do. Whether done professionally or by yourself, at home, a different hair style perks up your spirit—makes you look interesting . . . makes that attractive new hat look better than ever.

Treat Yourself
Next move is to change the shade of your make-up. You'll probably not want to risk experimenting here. Why not give yourself a deserved treat. Go to a professional for advice. It's amazing the transformation that's possible with well-blended, skillfully applied make-up.

The experts will all give you this bit of advice "Renew make-up often. Never build up new make-up over old. Remember Operation Makeover—start fresh." Remove the old and streaked make-up with cotton pads soaked in a good quality witch hazel. You can carry several of these in an old compact. The witch hazel not only speeds cleaning, it makes your skin feel cooler at the same time.

One last Makeover suggestion: get more rest. If the bedroom is not airconditioned, keep it dark during the day. Keep sheets fresh and wear light, porous night-clothes.

Reunion Held At Seymour

Rock Ledge Park, Seymour, was the setting July 30 for the 14th annual reunion of the Loewenhagen family. Thirty-seven families and three guests attended the pollock dinner and supper.

Officers elected for the coming year are Kenneth Schroeder, president; Carleton Tiedt, vice president; Donald Moeller, treasurer; and Mrs. George Schaumburg, secretary. Next year's reunion will be at the same park.

WHITE DINNER JACKETS

Is it ever correct for the men in the bridal party and the two fathers to wear white dinner jackets at a morning church wedding? If the white jackets are incorrect, is it still the prerogative of the bride and her parents to state what the men should wear?

Louise Davis Answers:
The white dinner jackets which are tuxedos should never be worn at a morning or afternoon wedding. They are for evening wear only. Yes, even if they are incorrect, it is still the prerogative of the bride and her parents to stipulate the type of attire that the men are to wear. If the dinner jackets is the decree, the only thing to do is grin and bear it.

My nephew married a girl with some strange and unconventional table manners. When her knife and fork are not in use even temporarily, she will put the tips on her plate and the handles on the table cloth. Do you think I have the right to correct her?

Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Showing off is second nature to a toddler, but actually a bit of ham-acting isn't entirely bad. It often helps develop self-confidence and social poise. However, when it goes beyond the limits of self-expression and high spirits, it's a good idea to distract your little entertainer with some quiet play.

Little appetites are always better off when you set a toddler's table with Gerber Junior Foods. Why? Because the flavors are luscious, the colors sing and the texture is properly minced for tots with teeth. Like Gerber Strained Foods, they're specially processed to preserve true flavors and the utmost in nutritive values.

Little appetites tend to taper off at about the end of the first year, because baby's rate of growth slows down considerably. Naturally he doesn't need the amount of food he needed during the first year. Good way to keep your toddler's appetite bright — serve something new in the way of a taste surprise.

New flavor surprise for the light of your eyes: Gerber Junior Spaghetti, Tomato Sauce and Beef. Tender, enriched spaghetti teams up with bits of juicy beef and savory tomato sauce. So "grown-up" good you won't have a bit of trouble tempting your tot.

Cheer-up Dept. Does baby have a fussy spell about the same time every day? If so, it often helps to shift bathtime to this cranky time. Water is a wonderful relaxer as well as a distraction.

New, for you! Now, most Gerber Baby Foods come in wide-top jars with Quick-Twist® caps and "Shop-Easy" labels. The caps twist off for on with a quick quarter turn. The new labels speed shopping time, make selection a cinch because the variety name is at the top. Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Mich.

The Ailing House Means for Removing Lye Film

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN
LYE FILMED LINOLEUM
 Q: I accidentally spilled some lye, while cleaning the kitchen sink drain, on the linoleum; this left a grey film on the area. How can the film be removed?
 A: Try wiping the discolored area with a solution of half vinegar and half water, followed by rinsing with clear water. If the discoloration remains, rub the spot with fine steel wool and coat with boiled linseed oil. After 24 hours, polish with a clean, dry cloth.

TATTLE-TALE GRAY
 Q: My white fiber glass living room curtains have developed a "tattle-tale gray," although in perfect condition otherwise. Is there any way to restore the whiteness again?
 A: This may be due to a film left by laundering in soap; better to use a mild detergent on fiber and glass, leaving no film and requiring less rinsing. Use a perborate bleach on the fiber glass materials, available at supermarkets and housewares stores, following material.

label directions; never use a chlorine bleach on this type of fabric.
PAINTING WOOD SIDING
 Q: I am planning to repaint my wood house during my vacation. What is the right way to apply the paint to the siding?
 A: First of all, be sure the surface is free of all dust, soot, etc., and use a top quality exterior paint. For better coverage, and to save your arm, deposit the paint in several spots on the board, then brush it to cover the area, following the grain and working from a dry surface toward a wet one. Smooth out brush marks by gentle stroking with tip of an almost dry brush.
 For horizontal siding: Apply paint first to the bottom of each board, then the face. For vertical siding: First, the grooves between boards, then the face of each board. Spray equipment will save time and considerable effort. So will a roller.
REPLACING FLOOR FILLER
 Q: Our floors have dried out and some of the filler has come out. Is there any way to remedy this without completely refinishing the floors?
 A: A putty stick is available in a wide variety of popular wood colors at plywood dealers and some hardware and paint stores; this in a matching floor color can be used to replace the missing filler and requires no, finishing and housewares stores, following material.

Nurse Lucille Thompson holds little Mary Dolores Quinones at Torrance Memorial Hospital in Torrance, Calif. The baby was born last March 22 and weighed only 1 pound, 4 ounces at birth. She's now a robust 5 pounds, 5 ounces and will leave the hospital today to go home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jose Quinones. Mary Dolores was one of a pair of premature twin daughters. The other baby died at birth.

 Music is not essential, but the lilting strains of island music will help set the mood for the festivities. A phonograph and a stack of Hawaiian records are ideal—unless you have a friend who loves to play the guitar or ukelele.
 Most important is that you keep the gay informal luau spirit—and your party will be a delightful success.

North Central To Change Time Of Morning Flight

Expects Segment 10 Use to Go Up With Earlier Schedule

North Central airlines is preparing a morning flight readjustment under which a flight would leave Appleton about 9 a.m. and arrive in Chicago an hour and a half later.

The plan is part of a general realignment of Segment 10, the air route between Minneapolis and Chicago, according to Frank Buttorner, North Central's vice president in charge of sales.

Buttorner said North Central plans to "beef up" Segment 10 by adding Clintonville to the morning flight schedule.

He said the changes will take effect sometime next month.

The current flight out of Appleton leaves at 12:05 p.m.

Weak Segment

The airline realizes, according to Buttorner, that Segment 10 as it is presently constituted, is weak. This is, he said, because the flight arrives in Chicago too late for passengers to make major connections to other areas.

"You have to get into Chicago in the morning to make these connections," Buttorner said, "and now we hope to work out a better schedule for Segment 10 to meet that condition."

Buttorner said the proposed change does not mean Appleton will be an additional morning flight as has been rumored. "This means," he said, "that the morning flight through Appleton will arrive in Appleton earlier in the day."

He said the airline hopes to push the morning flight out of Minneapolis by 6:30 a.m., making arrival time in Chicago about 10:25 or 10:35.

Seven Cities

Segment 10, under the new plan, will include Minneapolis, Eau Claire, Marshfield, Clintonville, Appleton, Milwaukee and Chicago.

Appleton and the other cities along the segment originally were granted air service in 1950 on a "use it or lose it" basis.

North Central's action comes in the wake of last month's disclosure that the Civil Aeronautics Board, through the Bureau of Economic Regulation, advised the airline to cancel service on three routes from Minneapolis-St. Paul to Michigan, Wisconsin, and South Dakota.

State Fair Opening Set For Aug. 11

Auto racing, band concerts, the Roy Rogers Show and exhibitions of Wisconsin progress have been scheduled as part of the 111th annual State Fair opening Friday in Milwaukee.

New additions to the 185-acre State Fair Park are the landscaped mall and Little Badger's Barn, which contains typical farm animals to form a rural type zoo.

Livestock competition starts on opening day. Four auto races sanctioned by the U. S. Auto Club are scheduled for Aug. 12, 13, 17 and 20. The Roy Rogers troupe will appear in 10 evening and five matinee performances.

A "papermobile" sponsored by the industry will detail the paper manufacturing process from raw wood to the finished product in miniature. A new aquarium building has been built as part of the conservation department's exhibit.

Outdoor enthusiasts can get a look at model camp with live campers ready to provide information on the state's 32 camp grounds. Sportmen's license will be on sale at the exhibit.

Each of the state's 32 counties are scheduled to have some part in 1961 fair which runs until Aug. 29.

Music Festival Peninsula Orchestra To Focus on Strings

BY JACK RUDOLPH
Post-Crescent News Service

FISH CREEK — Musical emphasis, so far on piano and vocal fire, works, shifts to strings here Wednesday night. The Peninsula Music Festival's fourth program of music is presented by the Peninsula Music Festival Orchestra, conducted by Charles Treger, and James Barber in a pair of warmly melodic works in which the fiddle is king.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the Gibraltar High School gymnasium.

Opening work of the evening under the baton of Dr. Thor Johnson will be J. S. Bach's Concerto in D Minor for Two Violins with Treger and Barber in the solo-duet roles. The concert will close with Treger as soloist in Antonin Dvorak's Violin Concerto in A Minor, while sandwiched between will be Maurice Ravel's perennially popular "Mother Goose Suite."

Concertmaster

Treger, the young Detroit, made a highly successful bow to Festival audiences last year when he replaced Sidney Harth as concertmaster. He subsequently returned to the Green Bay area during the winter as concertmaster and soloist with Johnson's Chicago Little Symphony and this spring joined the University of Iowa faculty as an associate professor and artist in residence.

Barber is a veteran of several years with the Festival orchestra, a former concertmaster of the Eastman-Rochester Orchestra and now a member of the faculty of Baylor University. Although he has had previous spots on the annual Festival Virtuosi program this will be the first time he has been so prominently featured. His wife Gail, Festival harpist, is also a Baylor faculty member.

Although there is no sales out-let in Appleton, tickets for the remaining events on the Peninsula

Airport Group Objects to Oshkosh Road Relocation

Twin Cities Chamber of Commerce Committee Says It Would Cost $1 Million

NEENAH — Objections to spending a million dollars or more to relocate highways south and east of Oshkosh were raised today by the airport committee of the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce.

In an open letter to the citizens of Winnebago County, the committee first asked if county taxpayers were willing to spend $1 million for relocation of the roads.

The missive continued, "Reports are current that the aviation committee of the Winnebago County Board is proceeding quietly with plans to expand the Oshkosh airport and has asked the State Highway Commission to include the relocation of Highway 26 and other roads as part of the State Highway program. This request was reportedly rejected in the early stage."

Pay the Bill?

"The Oshkosh airport cannot be expanded without the relocation of State 26 and other roads to permit extension of present runways. Will Winnebago citizens be expected to pay the bill as part of a new airport program?"

"Gov. Nelson has requested that no further public funds be expended until the completion of the state airport study undertaken by his staff. Is it fair to the taxpayers to continue with expansion plans without waiting for the governor's report?"

"And should any group of citizens from one area be permitted to represent themselves as a Winnebago County committee?"

Four Members from Oshkosh

The letter went on, "Winnebago County's aviation committee of five has three members from Oshkosh, which includes the county board chairman, who by special board rule is a voting member of the committee, and a fourth member is from the Town of Algoma where the airport is located. (In other words, for all practical purposes, it has four members from Oshkosh.) Should such a group contact federal and state agencies in the name of the county with only one representative to voice the desires of the rest of the county outside Oshkosh?"

Waupaca Shooting

WAUPACA — Thomas J. Ryan, 21, Chicago, was charged here Monday with attempted murder, felonious assault and carrying a concealed weapon.

The charges grew out of an early Sunday morning shooting at a Chain O'Lakes tourist mecca in which 21-year-old Ronald F. Karow, Milwaukee, was critically wounded.

Won't Enter Plea

Ryan, according to Waupaca County authorities, admitted the shooting. He refused to enter a plea at the arraignment, however, until he had consulted with an attorney.

Two of Ryan's companions, Dennis J. Malec, 22, Park Ridge, 111, and William J. Stringfellow, 19, Chicago, were arraigned on charges of carrying concealed weapons. Both were held when they could not

Three Calls in 18 Hours Keep Firemen Busy

MENASHA — Three fire calls in an 18-hour period kept city firemen busy Monday afternoon and this morning.

At 2:10 p.m. Monday the department was called out for a grass fire on DeDere Street. At 3:30 p.m. Monday insulation started burning on the roof of the Wisconsin Tissue Mills, Third Street. The fire was extinguished quickly and no damage was reported.

Firemen answered a call to the Dr. Edward J. Shelby home, 366 Naymut St., at 9:25 a.m. today when food baking in an oven burned and the house was filled with smoke. Firemen used the smoke ejector.

Appleton Police Chief Walter J. Hendricks, left, learns the operation of the city's first radar unit, an almost foolproof device for catching speeders. Traffic Lt. John Gosch points to a dial, which follows a car and indicates its speed. The dial may be stopped at any point, so that the speeder can be shown what he has done. The unit, mounted on a new compact car, will be used along with the department's two speed watch units for selective enforcement in areas where speeding is a chronic problem.

Large Continues Withholding Fight

Holds Key Vote in Determining Outcome of Republican Measure

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Sen. Gerald Lorge of Bear Creek announced today that he will continue to oppose the income tax withholding provision of the Republican sales tax bill.

Lorge made his statement after a Senate Republican caucus on the tax revision measure that is expected to be approved in the Assembly today.

His decision means that the Republican State Senate won't be able to keep the withholding provision that passed in the Assembly as an admitted inducement to Democratic Gov. Nelson to swallow his reservations about a sales tax.

Return to Assembly

When the Senate kills the Assembly's withholding amendment, the tax bill will be returned to the lower house, which will then be asked to change its position. If it refuses to do so, the tax bill will be sent to a joint conference committee for an attempt to work out a compromise. That negotiation may hold up adjournment of the Legislature.

OMRO — Fire destroyed a barn and milk house on the Donald Schuster farm, route 1, Omro, Monday night.

The blaze was discovered about 6:45 p.m. and Omro firemen remained at the scene until 10:45 p.m. It was believed the fire started in a straw mow. Straw had been loaded into the barn during the day.

The 30 by 60-foot barn was burned to the ground and all hay and straw was destroyed. In addition a silo was burned and barn cleaner destroyed. The family was in the barn when the fire was discovered and managed to get all cattle and machinery to safety. No estimate of the loss has been made.

To meet competition from mail order and discount houses, the national Walgreen Drug Store chain has reduced its prices on prescription drugs.

C. R. Walgreen, president of the chain, which has two stores in Appleton, 20 in Milwaukee and five elsewhere in Wisconsin, said its action is the first major reply to the challenge of mail order, food, and discount firms and prescription clubs.

Rudolph L. Berger, manager of Walgreen's College Avenue store, said the reductions are "substantial."

Troops Raid Melons; Army Will Pay Bill

PATRICK, S.C. (AP) — Exercise Swift Strike has barely begun, but C. H. Hicks of Jefferson said troops have found the melons in one of his fields so tasty he must file a reimbursement claim with Uncle Sam.

Roadblocks to Big Rockets Overcome

Firm Says Single Units of 3 Million Pound Thrust Ready

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (AP)—The United Technology Corporation says that the major roadblocks in the production of single rockets of up to three million pounds of thrust have been overcome as a result of tests it has just completed.

The announcement was made in the wake of what Gen. Donald L. Putt, UTC president, called "a successful firing of the nation's first operational prototype of a booster-size, segmented, solid propellant rocket motor."

The testing firing took place Saturday at UTC's development center near Morgan Hill, Calif. It was conducted for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Fired Nose Down
Fired nose down, the giant conical rocket motor, 26½ feet long and 7½ feet in diameter at its widest point, operated for 80 seconds and produced approximately 2,500,000 pounds of thrust.

The firing sent flames high above the facility's concrete test bay which is built to withstand thrusts of better than 2 million pounds.

By clustering such motors, UTC spokesmen said that thrusts as high as 25 million pounds can be produced.

The 80-second burning time fulfilled the minimum requirements for an efficient and practical space booster. Shorter burning times for such rockets would impose excessive G-loads on either mechanical or human payloads, today's announcement said.

30 Tons of Propellant

The announcement added that another break-through achieved by the test firing was that it marked the first time that a lightweight steel casing of exact flight design has been successfully used. Previously, only relatively heavy-walled test casings unsuitable for flight have been utilized.

The center section of the three-segment engine contained almost 30 tons of propellant, more than any single rocket segment ever built in the United States. In all, the engine's three segments contained 40 tons of propellant.

B. R. Adelman, executive vice president for the United Aircraft Corporation subsidiary, said that the rocket engine was assembled without mishap under field conditions.

Secured in 15 Minutes
The joint which secures the segments of the motor is a clevis-type and utilizes shear pins which are slipped into place by hand. A crane lowered one segment after another and they were fitted together and secured in less than 15 minutes.

Adelman said "the test firing proved that the rocket motor can be easily assembled in the field and when the button is pushed it took 10 minutes to awaken him and he had to use the car as a support to stand up."

Burdette Goes After 14th Win Tonight

Dressen Says His Club Is Still In Pennant Fight

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Milwaukee manager Charlie Dressen says his Braves are still in the fight for the National League pennant.

"A couple of weeks ago it was pointed out that we had four teams to catch and that was too big a job," Dressen said as the Braves were idle Monday. "We caught two of them," he added.

The catching he mentioned referred to the Braves' fifth place position several weeks ago. Since then they passed Pittsburgh and have a firm hold on fourth place, 2½ games ahead of the Pirates.

From Saturday evening until Sunday night the Braves were in third place after wresting it from the Giants in San Francisco. The Giants took it back and dropped the Braves to fourth by winning Sunday.

2-Game Series

The Braves are only a game behind the Giants and will be attempting to get back into third during their two-game series opening tonight with the league-leading Los Angeles Dodgers. While the Dodgers and Braves battle, the Giants will be entertaining the Chicago Cubs.

Lew Burdette will open for the Braves tonight as he goes for his 14th victory of the season against seven defeats. Burdette is all ready to go.

He worked out in the bullpen Saturday and afterward pitching coach Whit Wyatt said:

"If he can keep that sort of stuff for nine innings, he is unbeatable. Even (catcher) Sammy White couldn't hold him."

Burdette will be opposed by the Dodgers' southpaw star, Sandy Koufax, who has averaged better than a strikeout an inning in the major leagues.

Because the Dodgers were starting a lefty, Dressen said he will open with a lineup of all right-handed hitters, except Eddie Matthews. Felix Mantilla or Gino Cimoli will be in center field.

And Burdette is planning on supplying extra batting punch to the lineup. He says he'd rather bat than pitch in the Coliseum.

He's hoisted five homers out of the park, including a grand slam.

As the Braves arrived for the series, Joe Adcock was talking about home runs. His 22nd of the year on Sunday sparked a ninth inning rally that fell one run short as the Braves were beaten 4-3 by the Giants.

"I finally hit a homer in Candlestick Park," Adcock said. It was the first in his career in the new San Francisco home of the Giants. It also gave him a homer in every National League park this year.

In 49 road appearances, the Yanks have played before 1,177,620 customers for an average of 24,033. The total for the other clubs in the same ball parks is 4,674,967 for 371 dates and an average of 12,601.

The Yanks have also attracted the largest single day crowds in six ball parks — 44,332 in Baltimore; 43,950 in Chicago; 35,199 in Minneapolis-St. Paul; 32,186 in Boston; 27,126 in Washington and 19,865 in Los Angeles.

The major leagues had a total of 815,081 paid last week, lifting the 1961 aggregate to 13,031,087—seven per cent under last year.

Lincoln and Burlington, who are battling the Fox Cities Foxes tooth-and-nail for a first division berth in the Three-I League, make their final visits to Goodland Field this week.

Lincoln opens its final series here tonight with one of the Foxes' two scheduled doubleheaders this week. The "Gasoline Alley" booster twin bill starts at 6:30 p.m. today. A ticket — which can be obtained from area service stations — plus 25 cents will provide any fan admission tonight.

The Foxes' starting pitchers will probably be chosen from among Dave Vineyard, John Miller and John Ellen.

Berra's Homer Powers Yankees to 4-1 Win, 3 Game League Lead

Musial Hits 440th Career Circuit Drive As Cards Jar Reds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris? Forget the kids. The home runs of the moment are Stan Musial and Yogi Berra, a couple of old guys who may be on the way out, but who refuse to go quietly.

It was Berra, now 35 and put out to pasture, who might say, in left field, who broke up a tie with a home run as the New York Yankees beat the Los Angeles Angels 4-1 Monday night. That gave the Yanks a five-game streak and a three-game lead, their biggest bulge yet, over idle Detroit in the American League race.

And it was Musial, still The Man at 40, who socked a three-run homer that boosted St. Louis to a 5-1 victory over Cincinnati and dropped the second-place Reds 6 percentage points behind the idle Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League scrap.

No. 14 for Berra

Berra's shot was his 14th of the season. Musial's was No. 11. Between them they have little more than half the total of either Mantle (43) or Maris (41) as the two peppy captains of the Pittsburgh Yankee outfielders shoot for Babe Ruth's long elusive record of 60.

Musial's, however, was the 440th of his 20-year career — a total topped only by Ruth. Jim Fox, Ted Williams, Mel Ott and Lou Gehrig, and second to Ott's 511 in National League history.

Yogi's was the 332nd of a 16-year career with the Yanks, most of it spent behind the plate. It year, has been poking along about broke a tie with Hall of Famer Hank Greenberg for 14th place on season and it's reached the state the all-time list. Only Ruth, Fox, where he admittedly "becomes Williams, Gehrig, Mantle and Joe overwhelmed when I get two hits DiMaggio have hit more in the AL in a game."

pair from Minnesota, both by 5-4, in the only other AL games.

Mantle and Maris were held to one hit each, and got just one ball past the pitcher's mound between them against losing right-hander Ken McBride (9-8). But even with singles they were the big guys for the Yanks—next to Berra. Maris caught the Angels by surprise with a real, two-out bunt that scored a run and made it 1-all in the third inning. Maris and Mick then paired for the insurance runs in 25-cent service charge. All Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cubs or Browns (who wear their scout uniforms) will be admitted to the park for a $1.00 service charge.

'60 Bat Champ Hitting .256

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dick Groat, the National League batting champion and most valuable player of 1960, is just another shortstop "scratching and trying to get along," this season.

For the first time since the season, Groat is not the peppy captain of the Pittsburgh Pirates came out of Duke University and joined the Bucs in 1952.

"The game has become a struggle instead of a joy," Groat said. "Everybody wants to know what's the matter." Groat said to day, "I can't begin to tell them. I don't know. If I did I would do something about it."

The infielder who won the batting title with a .325 average last year, has been poking along about broke a tie with Hall of Famer Hank Greenberg for 14th place on season and it's reached the state the all-time list. Only Ruth, Fox, where he admittedly "becomes Williams, Gehrig, Mantle and Joe overwhelmed when I get two hits DiMaggio have hit more in the AL in a game."

Packers Obtain Roach from Browns for Draft Choice

Meilinger Traded to Cowboys

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The Packers today (1) obtained quarterback John Roach, (2) traded off Steve Meilinger and (3) sent Tom Bettis to the hospital for surgery.

In a whirlwind of activity, Coach Vince Lombardi, who was the center of the news himself Monday when he signed a new 5-year contract, traded an undisclosed draft choice to the Cleveland Browns for Roach; sent Meilinger to Dallas in exchange for another undisclosed draft selection; and okayed an operation on Bettis' injured knee.

Roach was the St. Louis Cardinals' No. 1 quarterback in 1960 but was traded to the Browns.

The 200-pound signalist, who broke in with the Cards in '56 as a defensive back, gives the Packers added insurance on their top quarterback, Bart Starr.

Torn Cartilage

Some sort of policy became virtually a must when quarterback Joe Francis injured his knee in the intrasquad scrimmage last Saturday. Joe may have suffered a torn cartilage.

With Francis hobbled, Starr's only assistant was the promising rookie, Val Keckin — until Roach was obtained.

Roach, a lanky one at 6-4, played defense with the Cards in 1956 but then spent the next two years at Bowling Field air base in the employ of Uncle Sam. He returned in 1959 and played behind King Hill. Roach threw 57 passes and completed 22, including two for touchdowns.

The native of Dallas and one-time SMU star led the Cards to a 6-5-1 record last year, completing 87 out of 188 attempts for 1,423 yards and 17 touchdowns. His TD figure was fourth highest in the league.

Meilinger, now in his sixth pro year, came to the Packers in 1958. He broke his arm in 1959 and missed the entire season. He strengthened the bench last fall, backing up Gary Knafele and Ron Kramer.

End Corps Reduced

Sleeve, the former Kentucky one-man gang, should make it with the Cowboys. His departure reduces the Packers' corps of ends to seven, including rookies Clarence Mason and Lee Folkins. The veterans on hand are Max McGehee, Boyd Dowler, Lew Carpenter, Kramer and Knafele.

Dr. Jim Neilen, Packer team physician, performed surgery on Bettis' knee for removal of a spur and cartilage.

Bettis will miss most of the non-league season but "I'll be ready when the bell rings. You can count on that."

Tom is intent on playing this year. He missed the last four games in 1960, including the play-off game against the Browns.

Both Bettis and Dan Currie stayed out of the squad scrutiny Saturday. Bill Forester, Ray Nitschke and rookie Nelson

A New 5-Year contract was signed by Packer Coach and General Manager Vince Lombardi Monday. Lombardi, right, received an increase in salary and his contract was made retroactive to Feb. 1, 1961. Watching him sign is Packer President Dominic Olejniczak.

'A Badger Now,' Says Lombardi After Signing New 5-Year Contract

Vince Rewarded For Outstanding Job As Packer Chief

By ART DALEY

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Vince Lombardi hurried off the Packer practice field Monday and headed for the clubhouse.

He was on his way to a quick shower and a fast trip to St. Norbert College where Packer President Dominic Olejniczak had called a press, radio and TV conference.

This was a guarded secret—the reason for said conference, so we tried Vince with a nonchalant "What's going on?" The forthright Packer coach gave us that cat-who-stole-the-milk look and remarked: "Looks like the end of the Packers."

There was nothing to do but chuckle a bit and flee to St. Norbert and join the waiters.

Shortly, Vince arrived and joined members of the executive committee. Lombardi sat down with Olejniczak and executive committee men Tony Canadeo, Dick Bourguignon, Jerry Atkinson, John Torinus, Fred Trowbridge and Les Kelly, and the group waited a few moments while the TV boys cranked their picture machines.

The announcement, it seemed obvious, had to do with Vince, since Olejniczak had called the meeting and was preparing to make an announcement. All we could think of was New York in those few moments — had he changed his mind about going back there?

Contract Significant

Slowly, Olejniczak in that shaky Irish of his, made with the pleasing news that Lombardi had been given a new 5-year contract, at an increase in salary, replacing the old 5-year pact. It had been made retroactive to Feb. 1, 1961. Vince then spoke briefly, ex-

Trenary Stars as Cedar Rapids Tips Burlington, 2 to 1

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Des Moines' Demons, 26½ games out of fifth place in the six-team Three I League, scored one of their rare victories Monday night, and that by the narrowest of margins.

After taking a 6-2 lead into the last of the ninth, the Demons barely managed to hold off league-leading Topeka to win, 6-5. Relief pitcher Ray Culp finally stopped the Reds with the tying run on second base. Horners by John Mustion and Irv Clark helped Des Moines build up its lead.

Joe Trenary was the Cedar Rapids hero in a 2-1 conquest over Burlington. Trenary homered for the Braves' first run, then scored the winner on Ron Hunt's single in the third inning. Bill Holmes won with a six-hitter.

Baur Truck Slides Past Teamsters

Baur Truck beat Teamsters, 10-9, in the Appleton Little League Monday. Winning pitcher Dennis Mannebach struck out eight batters, but gave up 15 walks.

He sealed the victory in the bottom of the sixth inning by striking out the side with the bases loaded to end the game.

Breakfast Optimist rallied for four runs in the top of the fifth inning to beat Post-Crescent, 4-2. Jerry Wendt collected the win, allowing only three hits. Ross Melz, of Post-Crescent, and Wendt, J. Goehler, and C. Rusch, of the winners all doubled.

Miller, of Badger Highways, twirled a 1-hitter, beating Fox Sox, 14-1. He struck out 14 hitters. Baer, of Badger Highways, slammed a triple.

Detroit Signs Negro Catcher To Bonus Pact

DETROIT (AP) — Willie Horton, 18-year-old sandlot catching star, has agreed to sign a Tiger bonus contract for $50,000 — one of the largest ever offered a Negro prospect — the Detroit News reported Monday.

Horton is an Arnold, Va., native who slugged his way to stardom on the Detroit sandlots and drew the attention of at least seven other major league teams in addition to the Tigers. He reportedly rejected a $50,000 contract from the Red Sox.

The bonus figure reportedly offered by the Tigers exceeds by a wide margin the amounts paid to such Negro stars as Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella, Hank Aaron and Frank Robinson.

A Rhineland Country Club foursome, paced by a pair of amateurs, took an easy win by carding a best ball total of 60, four strokes better than the second place foursomes. The winners went out in 29 and put together a 31 on the second nine of the 18-hole event.

Tom O'Melia fired a 74 for Rhineland to tie for low among amateurs with Joe O'Neil of South Hills Country Club, Fond du Lac. O'Melia matched par going out and went two over in his second round. Mick McDonald had a 78 for the winners, pro Ralph Hutchinson carded a 82 and Ed Pecore had an 84.

Both Topped O'Melia and O'Neil, the top amateurs, both topped by one stroke, the best score turned in by a professional, a 75 by Jim Nicoll, Shorewood Country Club, Green Bay.

Mastry of the short 160-yard ninth hole with its pitched and sun-baked green proved the turning point for the winning foursome. Both times around one of its members was able to shave a stroke off its par three while other competitors had trouble matching par.

Tied for second place with 64½ were Lawsonia, Green Lake, and South Hills, Fond du Lac. Shore John Mustion and Irv Clark helped Des Moines build up its lead.

Other clubs competing were Riverdale, Sheboygan, and Fox over Burlington. Trenary homered for the Braves' first run, then scored the winner on Ron Hunt's single in the third inning. Bill Holmes won with a six-hitter.

On the "health" front, Paul Hornung is starting to run like his old self again—almost at full speed. He still has difficulty cutting.

Herb Adderley and Phil Nugent, the Bays' drafties who were in the College All-Star camp, took their first drill here Monday. Adderley's fine speed was noticeable.

Both newcomers will undergo many separate conferences with the coaches on the field. Yesterday, Adderley was taken aside by Coach Dick Voris and clued in on the Packers' stand-pat maneuver on pass plays. Nugent stood with Coach Norb Hecker and received a play-by-play description of the defense in action.

Scout Wally Czupe reported to camp Monday with the word on the Cowboys. He scouted the Cowboy - Minnesota game in Sioux Falls, S. D., and discovered that "the Cowboys have a good team and they'll be much, much better than last year."

The Packers face the Cowboys in Dallas Friday night.

With today's paper transactions, the Packers have 46 players on the roster, including nine rookies.

Doug Sanders Wins Eastern Golf Tourney

Bolsters Third Position on PGA Money Ladder

BALTIMORE (AP)—Doug Sanders, who drives a golf ball with the appearance of a wood chopper, was another giant step up the money ladder today.

The $5,300 from winning the Eastern Open Sunday bolstered his third position in the standings by giving him total earnings of $49,016. He is only about $7,500 behind Arnold Palmer and $11,500 shy of the golf winnings of Gary Player.

The Eastern was the fourth tournament victory this year for the 28-year-old Georgian. He has been second in three events, including the U.S. Open.

13 Off Par Sanders took the Eastern by knocking a total of 13 strokes off par for the 6,820-yard Pine Ridge course. His score was 275.

District Baseball Tournament Set

LC-K to Defend Title in Menasha, Starting Aug. 17

MENASHA — The Northeastern Wisconsin District Semi-pro Baseball Tournament will be played at the Menasha Ball Park Aug. 17, 18, 19 and 20, according to Jerry Heiss, tourney director.

Entries include the host Macs, Little Chute - Kimberly, Freedom, Fond du Lac, Gillett, New London, Waupaca and Oshkosh. Tilleda or Caroline also may enter and in that event, there will be a playoff game next Monday.

Present plans call for games at 6 and 8 p.m. on Aug. 17 and 18, semi-finals at 2:30 and 4:30 on Aug. 19 and the third place and championship encounters at 1 and 3 p.m. on Aug. 20.

All games except the championship will have an hour, 50 minute time limit. Little Chute - Kimberly is the defending champion.

In the past, a berth in the state tournament at Milwaukee has awaited the local champion but Heiss reports he has received no information from state headquarters as yet.

Usually held in late July or early August, the state meet finally was played in September last summer, too late for the champion to move on to the National Tournament at Wichita, Kan.

Bleier's Gains Berth in State Tournament

Bud Koehnke's Homer Clinches District Title

The Bleier's Bar team will compete in the state softball tournament at Eau Claire later this month.

Bud Koehnke's line home run over the left field fence capped a 5-run seventh inning rally last Saturday to give Bleier's a 6-4 win over Subway Bar and the championship of the Omro district tournament.

Bleier's trailed, 4-1, going into the final frame. Subway pitcher Len Adams opened the frame by hitting Jim Kirkland and walking Bud Werner.

Jim Maas forced Kirkland at third, but Marilyn Merholtz singled to center field to score Werner. Bob Drexler then delivered the game-tying blow, a triple to right center scoring both Maas and Merholtz.

Jim Schulze popped up trying to squeeze home the winning marker before Koehnke clouted the ball over the fence.

Werner fanned seven and walked two in getting credit for the victory. Len Adams was tagged with the loss. He struck out four and walked one.

Ron Piotrowski Spoils Giles' No-Hit Bid

In other action, St. Cloud shut out Duluth-Superior 7-0 and in a day-night double. Eau Claire topped Winnipeg 6-4, then lost 7-6 in 11 innings.

At night, a bad peg to third let Bobby Diaz scamper home with the winning run in the 11th.

pressing his appreciation for the confidence shown in him.

The new contract was significant for many reasons. Here are two: First, it was an excellent marker before Koehnke clouted the ball over the fence.

Werner fanned seven and walked two in getting credit for the victory. Len Adams was tagged with the loss. He struck out four and walked one.

Which is why we heard many times from friends along the pike Monday something like this: "Say, that means that he's not going anywhere. Watch the Packers go now. He had it coming and he earned it."

It's back to work today—with renewed enthusiasm... and do you know what Vince agreed to yesterday? "Yeah, I'm a Badger now," he laughed.

CHICAGO — The gap between Philip Knight Wrigley and the rest of the world is largely financial.

His tastes are not vastly different from what television executives believe to be the taste of the average American: for a long while, his favorite TV program was Robin Hood.

(One result: He sometimes spends hours on the phone talking with anguished Chicago Cub fans.

'Lunatic Fringe' Blamed for College Cage Shortcomings

LOUISVILLE, Ky. AP — A "lunatic fringe" is to blame for many of college basketball's woes, the president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches says.

By "lunatic fringe," Wilbur (Sparky) Stalcup says, he means overenthusiastic alumni and "a few misguided coaches" who think the end justified any means.

As a solution, he proposes: "Investigate the alumni. Investigate the coaches. The players. Everybody."

Stalcup made his remarks in an interview Monday during a visit here to arrange for NCAA championship playoff tickets for members of his group.

Among his suggestions: That point-shaving be made a criminal rather than civil offense. That the NCAA hire more investigators to uncover any possible scandals in college athletics.

New Homer, RBI Marks

Gentile Wishes Estrada Could Pitch Every Day

BALTIMORE Md. (AP)—Don't season while Estrada was the Baltimore pitcher, including all four trades of the Baltimore Orioles or of his grand-slam homers.

The teamed up again Monday night, Gentile hitting a solo homer his first time at bat and Estrada gaining credit for a 3-4 victory over the Kansas City Athletics. Estrada left the game in the seventh with a 3-0 lead, and eventually was charged with one run.

"He—Estrada—should be on his knees after every game, polishing Gentile's shoes," Oriole pitching coach Harry Brecheen said after the game.

"You ought to make him buy you something," catcher Gus Triandos urged Gentile. "How about a new suit?"

Gentile didn't take up the suggestion, but he thought it would be a good idea if Estrada pitched more often.

"If he pitched every day, I'd have a helluva year," he said. Most fans would agree Gentile already has that kind of year.

His homer Monday night snapped a tie with Triandos for the all-time club home run record. It was his 100th run batted in, two more than the club record of 98 he set as a rookie last season.

Gentile now stands third in the American League in hitting, .313, fourth in homers, and tied for second in RBI, two behind Roger Maris of the New York Yankees.

Small Wage Hikes Mean Low Prices

BY SYLVIA PORTER

In contrast to patterns firmly established almost immediately after World War II ended 16 years ago, wage-earners both in manufacturing and non-manufacturing industries are winning smaller pay hikes during this recovery year of 1961 than they won during the recession year of 1960.

You wouldn't get this impression from the list of demands the autoworkers' Walter Reuther has placed before Detroit's automakers. The initial list may be only for sparring purposes but it certainly contains some spectacular proposals.

Nevertheless, the slowdown in the pace of wage gains is a clear fact. Wage gains granted in contracts so far in 1961 are running well behind those of 1960 — and the average for 1961 is likely to average out at 8 cents an hour, a penny less than the average for 1960.

Cost Decreases

This is about the best news you could get from the viewpoint of your cost of living — and this goes for the workers who are settling for the smaller pay gains as well as for the millions who are not in unions battling for juicy pay hikes each year.

For it means that wage boosts now are not laying the base for price increases, which would cut into the buying power of all of us.

It means that in general, American companies can grant this year's average wage boost and more than make up for the cost via increased efficiency of production.

It means that higher labor costs won't put the dreaded squeeze on corporation profits. Not only will profits be heading up this year but profit margins also will be improving.

But still it means that the moderate wage increases will be pouring additional millions of dollars into workers' pocketbooks and this money will flow into the economy to bolster the business advance.

Draws Patterns

Here's the pattern drawn in 1961 to date as put together from a study of almost 1,400 wage settlements by Donald F. Farwell of the Washington research service, Bureau of National Affairs, Inc.

(1). To date, wage hikes are running around 8.3 cents an hour against 9.3 cents an hour in the first half of 1960.

(2). In the second quarter, the customary spring pickup in the size of negotiated wage increases failed to materialize, and what's more, settlements in manufacturing actually averaged a bit less in the second quarter than in the first three months.

(3). In six manufacturing and non-manufacturing industries, this year's gains are running ahead of last year's but in 14 others, the reverse is true. Particularly noteworthy is the slowdown in the wage rise in the construction and textile industries—a trend which is encouraging for the price outlook for housing and clothing.

Settlements Lower

(4). Even on the West Coast, where the largest increases are being negotiated, the average settlement is running almost 2 cents below the average in the comparable period during recession 1960.

(5). While the emphasis on fringe benefits continues to be heavy, it's not as heavy as last year. New or revised insurance arrangements have appeared in 29 per cent of this year's agreements compared with 35 per cent in 1960's first half. New or revised pension plans have been in 15 per cent of the settlements, off 1 per cent.

(6). Deferred wage increases are showing up in fewer settlements too—48 per cent this year against 50 per cent last year.

(7). The slowdown appears at every level of wage settlement. This year, 8 per cent of the contracts provide for no increase against 3 per cent in the first half of 1960. Included in the one-six cent increase-per-hour range are 26 per cent of the contracts, against 20 per cent in 1960. At the other end of the scale, 7 per cent of the contracts grant increases of over 15 cents this year against 10 per cent last year.

Enough—the figures to date are clear, and unless the auto negotiations violently change the trend,

Population Explosion Hits City Hall Cats

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Workers in the basement of city hall have always relied on one or two cats to help keep the rats under control.

But recently there has been a feline population explosion. Some workers said they were afraid to go into the basement's darker crannies where cats would reach down from steam pipes and take a swipe at them.

1961 will go down as a year of slower, mildest, non-inflationary wage increases.

The odds are that the auto settlement will not violently alter the trend. It's good. It's healthy. It's high time.

Barricade Provokes Paving Project Rush

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Township trustees got the message when Gene Geary got fed up with dust on unpaved Topaz Avenue. He placed barricades across the street to halt traffic.

When sheriff's deputies arrived, Geary asserted that the trustees promised to pave the street but never got around to it. The deputies asked him to check again. Trustees informed Geary that a contract for the work had been signed. The barricades came down.

Sales, Profits At Thilmany On Upgrade

Peters Says Firm Still Must Absorb Most Cost Increases

KAUKAUNA—Sales and profits are beginning to show improvement, although still behind figures for the first half of 1961. H. P. Peters, sales vice president of Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., told the firm's sales managers recently.

"Net sales for the first half of 1961, while 5.3 per cent lower than in the first half of 1960, reflect a continuing improvement from the last half of 1960," Peters said.

"Profit for the first half of this year is approximately 20 per cent less than the comparable 1960 figure, but net earnings have begun to improve," he added.

Reduce Costs

He attributed the improvement to "efforts throughout the company to increase efficiency and reduce costs." He warned, "We still are faced with a serious cost-price situation wherein almost all cost increases must be absorbed or offset within the company."

Principal discussion during the meeting was a review of sales objectives for each department. Departments were scrutinized for weak marketing areas and plans were formulated to concentrate efforts of the entire sales staff in those areas.

New grades and items were discussed and examined from the standpoint of promotional and marketing possibilities.

Around Home

There's a board missing from under the eaves at the John McCann home again. The family is remodeling its home at 843 E. North St. to take care of the needs of their six growing children. In the process, they've removed old boards and replaced them before painting. One board was removed about two weeks ago. Saturday after a new one was replaced and painted, the family heard the frantic, cheeping sound of baby birds. Removal of the newly painted siding showed the open beaks of two newly hatched sparrows. The sympathetic McCanns have left the board off, hoping Mama Sparrow will return to take care of her growing family.

'Fat Cat'
Common Term
In Debate

Slang Introduced in Legislature During
Tax Controversy

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Long and angry arguments in the Legislature about the Republican tax revision bill have incidentally introduced to the formalities of legislative floor discussion some slang and colloquial terms heretofore used in more limited circles.

The most conspicuous illustration is the phrase "fat cat" which was tossed about intermittently in both houses of the legislature as Democrats exhausted vocabularies in their to-the-bitter-end resistance against the Republican measure which was keyed to a sales tax as a means of state budget balancing and local property tax reduction.

Uses Phrase

Sen. William Moser of Milwaukee, the Democratic caucus leader in the upper house, employed the phrase constantly during the early days of the senate debate, as he charged that the Republicans were trying to shift the burdens of taxation to the less affluent from the rich, and particularly to the well-to-do Republicans, or "fat cats."

At one point, as Moser was engaged in close quarters oratorical combat with Republican floor leaders, they drew from him the idea that a "fat cat" is any person who earns more than does the young Milwaukee Democratic politician who started his law practice only half a dozen years ago.

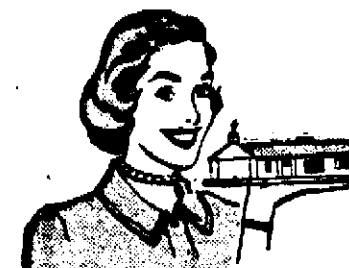

As the fight went on, however, the consensus was that a "fat cat" is one who earns $10,000 a year or more. That demarcation apparently resulted from the insistence of Gov. Nelson and the legislative Democrats that under an income tax withholding or pay-as-you-go plan, forgiveness of 1961 taxes due in the spring of 1962 could be justified only for those who earned less than that amount.

Theme Continues

The "fat cat" theme continued into the boiling assembly debate, with the Democrats apparently using it in a serious vein, and the Republicans amusing themselves with a partisan selection of examples. Most eager participant in the illustrative arguments was Assemblyman Richard Peterson, Waupaca Republican, who got up to read at short intervals a list of persons he thought qualify for the "fat cat" designation.

Peterson's list consisted wholly — and with some ups from Republican headquarters men — of the names of the more wealthy liberals of Wisconsin, including several sitting on the Democratic side of the assembly aisle. Some of the latter smiled, apparently appreciating their classification.

Crime Joins Romance As Show Biz Favorite

Writers Try Best to Conceal Monotony of Gangster Themes

Love stories don't have too great a variety of plots, but the cast of characters is always changing making love a veritable mine for writers. Unhappily crime seems to be as much with us as romance and the possible characters are even more varied.

Jingo

There appears to be all types of crime fighters to which crime writers are publicly obligated. ABC's "Target: The Corruptors," premiering in the fall, "document" the segments from the files of Paul Marino, a roving editor for Readers Digest magazine since 1952.

Marino, and his ABC counterpart Lester Velle, has aimed at trying to teach John Q. Public the importance of doing something about organized crime that his indolence is financing.

Marino isn't worried about the show having a long run. He says, "Unfortunately, I always have new material to fill my filing drawers."

American Art Lovers Shun Paris Night Life To View Museums

PARIS — Among the many American tourists who swarm European capitals there is a group who shuns night-life, the shopping quarters and typical restaurants. That group is devoted exclusively to one thing in Europe: art. It consists of about a dozen Americans, mostly from Dallas, Texas, who tour museums and painters' ateliers. Its guide through the art world of Europe is Douglas MacCagy, director of the Dallas Museum for Contemporary Arts.

The idea for this tour came after MacCagy had conducted similar excursions for the residents of Dallas to the museums and art galleries of New York. Once New York had been exhausted he turned toward Europe.

Rudolf Bing, General manager of the Metropolitan Opera, tells newsmen in his New York office that there will be no 1961-62 opera season. Bing said that the decision to cancel the Metropolitan's season came because of a labor dispute with its musicians. The musicians had asked a $78 a week boost for the 90 members of the Met orchestra. At left is Met President Anthony A. Bliss. At right is Lander Greenway, chairman of the opera board.

Singers, Music Fans Upset by Met Closing

Cancellation of Season Blamed On Dispute With Musicians Union

NEW YORK (AP) — Music lovers reacted in somber tones to the announced closing of the Metropolitan Opera for the 1961-62 season and the cancellation of other announced cancellations in the Met's annual spring tour.

Recent years never went into effect. Labor troubles, blamed then on the world's greatest opera singers. One appealed directly to President Kennedy to help settle the dispute.

hope" of saving the 1961-62 season. He was gloomy about prospects for the 1962-63 season.

The crux of the situation is that since July 30 the top stars and even the lesser ones have been free to make other commitments. "We cannot have a season without these singers," Bing said, adding that as many as two dozen of the more than 100 artists on the roster "already have been lost."

Soprano Anna Moffo is known to have made other arrangements for the season, but such operations as Leontyne Price had been holding off in hopes of a settlement.

In all, nearly 700 employees—the Met and the union—would welcome the interest of the White House.

Cartoonists Needed for TV Programs

Demand for Series, Commercials Creates Shortage of Artists

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actors, producers, directors — Hollywood has them in abundance. What this film capital really lacks is enough trained artists to fill the increasing demand for TV cartoon series.

Cartoon series aimed toward the adult TV audience compose one of next season's important trends. Last year there was one trail-blazer, "The Flintstones" on ABC, which built up such impressive ratings that this year it will be joined in prime evening time by four more: "The Bullwinkle Show" NBC Sundays; "Calvin and the Colonel" ABC Mondays; "Top Cat" ABC, Wednesdays; and "The Alvin Show" CBS, Wednesdays.

"Animation is a very small business," explained Jay Ward, "Bullwinkle's" creator and producer. "I don't suppose there are more than 1,000 persons in the entire business. It takes about five years to learn to be a good animator—they are the ones who make the cartoon characters move—and I don't think we have more than 300 of them."

Ward says that the increasing popularity of cartoon commercials and the four new TV series have created a shortage of several hundred craftsmen.

Some animators—always highly paid—now are working 60 to 80 hours a week. Some are putting in full-time at their regular jobs and free-lancing for other studios nights and weekends.

Women who once painted in backgrounds but retired upon marriage have been persuaded to resume this work at home.

Ward, who has been in the cartoon business for a dozen or so years, has managed to reduce his corporate problem by having all his animation work done by his staff of artists in Mexico City.

"We first moved there because the costs were about 15 per cent lower," he explained. "Now we stay there because we have a trained staff there, although we do all the creative work here in Hollywood."

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles football club received the following note Monday from a California woman who watched their 28-14 victory over the college All-Stars on television.

No Plans for Self Help, Says Ag Department

Proxmire Hopeful For New System For Dairy Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP)—A spokesman for Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said today there is no specific blueprint in the department at the present time for any self-help program for dairy farmers.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said in a recent televised interview in Wisconsin he was confident Freeman would propose such a plan to replace the present system of price supports for butter, cheese and other dairy products.

Proxmire said such a plan would include supply management to control production of milk and this would include a voluntary cullback of 3 to 5 per cent in dairy production. He said he expected Freeman and President Kennedy to make such a proposal within a year with the provision there be a referendum vote by dairy farmers before it could be put into effect.

The department spokesman said there is nothing definite along this line in the department at this time. However, he said, Freeman has appointed a commission to study the milk marketing orders which regulate milk handling in most metropolitan areas.

After a report from this study group the spokesman said, the department will consult with dairy farmers to see whether they want to adopt a quota system for milk production. He said if dairy farmers liked the idea, Freeman probably would propose such a program.

Stocks Up on Broad Front

Key Issues Show Gains as Market Prices Set Record

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved ahead over a broad front early this afternoon with trading proceeding at an active pace.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon stood at 254.90, up 0.80 from Monday's record closing high. Industrials were up 1.30, rails up 0.40 and utilities up 0.40.

Key issues showed gains running to a point or so, while the few losers in evidence were mostly down by only fractions.

McDonnell Aircraft and General Dynamics extended their gains to more than a point and North American Aviation was ahead around a point.

Steels, motors, some rubber shares, electronics, metals, most chemicals, oils and building material shares also were higher. Airlines turned mixed and tobacco eased.

Indications of rising steel production were reflected by U.S. Steel's rise of around a point and a gain of nearly a point by Jones & Laughlin.

Gains in motors were held to fractions, but Goodrich rose a point or so and U.S. Rubber nearly as much.

Union Carbide added more than 2 among chemicals and Du Pont moved up a bit after recovering from an earlier one-point loss. MGM rose more than a point.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials stood at 721.56, up 1.98 and nearly a point above its record high achieved last Friday.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mostly higher. Corporate and U.S. government bonds were lower.

Gunman Gets $200 After Two Truces

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Customers unwittingly caused two truces in a Hialeah loan office holdup.

Office manager Gene Waterson said a gunman told him, "Give me all your money." He said he was about to comply Monday when a customer walked in. The bandit pocketed his pistol and Waterson attended to business.

Waterson said the bandit pulled the gun again after the caller left, but another came in and the robber once more hid his weapon.

When they were alone again, Waterson said, the gun reappeared, the persistent bandit collected the cash and departed. Police said the loot was under $200.

Surgeon Trying to Save Herd of Wild Elephants

BY HENRY S. BRADSHAW

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—A re-tired surgeon is trying to save the remnants of a rampaging herd of wild elephants before they planters shoot them.

The beasts, driven to destructive fury by the inroads of civilization, have been uprooting coconut trees and trampling down acres of crops.

Only 14 survive from the original herd of about 87. Planters shot most of the others in an effort to preserve their coconut groves and rice paddies.

Save the Elephants
"The rest will probably be killed Park 17 miles from their jungle unless we can get them to sanctuary," said Dr. Richard L. Spittell, head of a committee trying to raise funds to save the elephants.

Spittell's committee has conceived an elaborate plan to drive the elephants to Wilpattu National retreat by the Dederu River, 50 miles north of Colombo.

Spittell hopes to launch the drive in a few days so he can get the herd to Wilpattu in a few days before the monsoon season sets in. But he estimates the project will cost more than $14,000 and so far the committee has only raised about $500.

Firecrackers and walkie-talkies
Hundreds of volunteers and Red Cross workers equipped with firecrackers and walkie-talkie radios will take part in the roundup.

They must flush the elephants from the dense jungle and drive them through wooded strips running between plantations and rice paddies.

At one point, however, they will have to herd the flock through open fields and committee members fear the great beasts may panic.

Government for Plan
The Ceylon government is giving unofficial support to the plan and has instructed officials to help in the fund appeal.

Ceylon's elephant population has dropped from countless thousands to only about one thousand, said steady to 50 higher; choice and Spittell. The survivors have to be prime native spring lambs 19.00-kept in their natural habitat or 19.50, good and choice 16.00-18.50, else the breed will become extinct, cull and utility 12.00-15.50, cull to Elephants refuse to breed in captivity, he said.

Air-Conditioner Too Loud for Shorewood

Units Off-Key, Too; Village Considering Anti-Noise Law

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Acoustics expert and musician Harvey A. Uber says the home air conditioners in suburban Shorewood are too loud and definitely not playing his kind of tune.

Uber appeared before the village board Monday night to support an anti-noise ordinance aimed at quieting the coolers.

His eyes and ears were opened recently, Uber said, when a neighbor installed an air conditioner in a window near Uber's warm bedroom.

"We've stopped living in that part of the house," Uber said. In an effort to find out just how much noise the coolers make, Uber obtained a sound measuring decibel meter and walked up and down the streets in Shorewood, Whitefish Bay and Milwaukee.

"Not one of the window varieties registered below 73 decibels," Uber said. He explained that he had been told by ear specialists that 80 decibels demand an investigation and 85 are positively harmful.

The whirl of the cooler, Uber said "approximates the A above middle C modified by a 'kunk' every once in a while. It is definitely off key."

He characterized the window-mounted air conditioners as "high pitched sopranos." The larger units which cool an entire house, he said, are "baritones."

Village manager Robert Duncan said there have been a number of

Writer Questions Titov's Voyage

Soviets Won't Let West Watch Any Firings, Could be Elaborate Fake

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
IN EUROPE — Until and unless the Soviet Union allows disinterested scientists and members of the press from other countries to witness the ascent into and descent from space of astronauts aboard satellites that circle the earth, the alleged exploit of gherman Titov must remain a matter of doubt. It could have been the hoax of all times.

Lawrence

For everything that has been reported from Moscow and from other countries about conversations by radio to and from the satellite, itself could have been reproduced artificially by tape recordings in advance without the actual presence of any astronaut aboard during the flight.

cant paragraph about an American space project:
"A two-ton Project Mercury capsule, it is hoped, will be launched into a single orbit by an Atlas rocket this month. This capsule will contain an 'artificial astronaut,' a 'crewman simulator' which will 'breathe, sweat and talk.'"
The foregoing experiment, if successful, is to be followed later by a manned capsule sent into orbit by the United States. But the press of the world will be invited to see the launchings and the return and to hear the uncoded reports from the spaceship.
Simulated Flight?
In attempting to get ahead of America, the Soviets may well have "simulated" the whole flight. It seems incredible, for instance, that Titov would actually sleep eight hours while engaged on such a hazardous and momentous undertaking wherein every minute, it may be assumed, would require him to be alert to see that nothing went wrong mechanically.
It doesn't seem possible that the and supposed to be in the air only 26 hours, would waste any of those hours in sleep, or that he really could be so calm as to drop off to slumberland at the appointed time with the greatest of ease. In fact, the Moscow report said that by prearrangement he was supposed to sleep only 7½ hours, but extended his slumbers by 37 minutes.

This recess, incidentally, afforded an opportunity for complete silence in communications while the satellite was supposedly over certain parts of the globe. Whatever messages came from the ship and were heard at all could easily have been taped beforehand and broadcast from the satellite. It is significant that nobody but the Russian ground crew could communicate with the satellite during its flight and that no conversations from outside Russia were permitted. There were no television reels shown in Russia of pictures taken at the beginning or ending of the flight, though even these could also have been taped beforehand. A Moscow dispatch by Reuters says:
No Details
"Details of the landing were not disclosed immediately, but it was believed the spaceship came down suspended from parachutes. The procedure involves the firing of a retrorocket to take the ship out of its orbit and head it back to earth. There is also an alternative method whereby Titov could be ejected in an emergency and de-chute."

All this is the kind of hazardous performance which, in the case of American astronauts Shepard and Grissom, the press and its photographers were able to witness. Television cameras at once gave the entire world a bona fide movie of what was happening in both instances. Why, then, did the Soviets prefer to do it in secrecy? A United Press International dispatch from Moscow says: "western observers were not permitted to witness Titov's takeoff or landing."
The claim was made in one of the Moscow dispatches that television cameras, presumably aboard the satellite, were sending back pictures of Titov in flight. But these pictures could, of course, have been made before the ship left the ground.
Propaganda Use
Many similarities between the alleged flights of Gagarin and Titov were noted in Moscow press dispatches. The first thought of both astronauts was to send greetings to the Central Committee of the Communist Party and to Premier Khrushchev. The messages were obviously prepared ahead of time for propaganda purposes.
Plans are being made already to send Titov as a "goodwill ambassador" on trips to other countries. The flight itself was timed to coincide with the meeting of western foreign ministers at Paris and has all the aspects of a propaganda stunt, cleverly conceived and executed.
